Resolved, That the seats of Senators be drawn by lot, as follows : That the names of the Senators be written each upon a separate piece of paper, and placed in one hat, and the numbers of seats each on other separate slips, and placed in another hat, and that the Clerk shall draw a name from among the names of Senators, and at the same time the Sergeant-at-Arms shall draw a number from the hat containing the numbers, and each Senator shall be entitled to that seat, the number of which is drawn simultaneously with his name, in the manner before provided.

Which was twice read and adopted.

Ordered, That a committee of three Senators be appointed to report to the House of Representatives that the Senate is now organized and ready to proceed to business.

Whereupon the Speaker appointed Messrs. Dickerson, Anderson and Paul said committee.

After a short time, Mr. Dickerson, from said committee, reported that they had performed the duty assigned them.

On motion of Mr. English, leave of absence, indefinitely was granted Messrs. McCann and Hays.

And the question being taken on the adoption thereof, it was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Smith moved the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms be, and is hereby, authorized to supply the Speaker of the Senate and each Senator and officers of the Senate, with two daily papers, each Senator to make selection of such papers as he may desire.

Which was twice read and adopted.

A message was received from the House of Representatives by Messrs. Welch, Wallace, Kinkead, Settle and Cox, informing the Senate that they had met and organized, and were now ready to proceed to business.

On motion of Mr. Berry:

Ordered, That a committee of three Senators be appointed by the Speaker, to act in conjunction with a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives, to inform his Excellency, the Governor of Kentucky, that the General Assembly is now organized and ready to receive any communication he may desire to submit.

Whereupon the Speaker appointed Messrs. Berry, Breckinridge and Stewart said committee.

Mr. Berry, from the joint committee appointed to wait upon the Governor, reported they had performed the duty assigned them, and were informed by the Governor that in a short time he would lay before the General Assembly a message in writing.

In a short time a message in writing was received from the Governor by Hon. Willis L. Ringo, Assistant Secretary of State.

Said message was taken up and read as follows, viz :

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

In obedience to the requirements of the Constitution, you have met to consider and to act upon measures important to the welfare and happiness of the people. The Executive of the State, who is made by the Constitution a factor in legislation, in so far as his assent is necessary, under proper limitations, to the enactment of laws, is further required to "give to the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may deem expedient."

We meet as the agents of those who sent us, armed with the powers conferred by the organic law, holding in trust for the benefit of the whole people the authority which we have received, and forbidden by the restrictions which the people have wisely thrown around our actions to sanction any legislation which is in any way detrimental to the general interests.

It is in this spirit that I ask your consideration of such suggestions as may be offered in this communication.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

The report of the Auditor of Public Accounts gives a detailed statement of all the expenditures of the State government during the last two years, and shows its present financial condition.

The total receipts, including balance at the beginning of the year, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, amounted to $4,393,793.36. The total expenditures during the same period were $4,320,867.12, leaving a balance in the Treasury June 30, 1889, $72,926.24.

As nearly fifty-eight per cent. of the entire revenue of the State is devoted by law to educational and other specific purposes, only about forty-two per cent. of the revenue can be applied to the payment of all the general expenses of the State, including the maintenance of the courts, of all the eleemosynary institutions, the pay and salaries of all officials, of jurors, the expenses of the General Assembly, and the construction of all new public buildings. In other words, notwithstanding the constant demands on the Treasury, due to the increasing population of the State, a careful administration of the revenue has resulted in defraying all the general expenses of the State government on a tax of twenty cents on every one hundred dollars of assessed valuations, which is a rate of expenditure no greater than when the State contained little more than half the present population.

The Auditor estimates that there will be a surplus in the general expenditure fund on June 30, 1890, of $171,844.78, and on June 30, 1891, of $532,844.78.

The defalcation of the late Treasurer of the State, reported to your predecessors, amounted to $247,128.50. Proceedings by the Attorney-General, resulting in realizing on the funds and property of the defaulting Treasurer and adjudications by the Special Commission constituted by the Legislature, have resulted in reducing this amount by the sum of $73,033.88, leaving a balance yet due of $174,094.62. The Commission is still proceeding in the adjustment of the outstanding accounts, and it is estimated that the indebtedness will be still further reduced, leaving probably not more than $150,000 to be collected from the bondsmen of the Treasurer. The suit against them is pending in the Court of Appeals.

Your attention is invited to the statement of the Auditor in regard to the rapidly increasing cost of juries. In 1886 they cost the State $140,215.95; in 1887, $159,561.49; in 1888, $202,026.26; and in 1889, $361,244.59, being an increase of over 150 per cent. in four years, and of 73 per cent. during the last fiscal year.

This extraordinary increase in expenditures can arise only from the want of attention on the part of some of the circuit judges and Commonwealth's attorneys to the interests of the public. An examination of the Auditor's report will show this to be necessarily so.

Referring to the cost of witnesses alone in criminal prosecutions, it will be seen that in the county of Anderson there was paid to witnesses the sum of only $16.00; in the county of Bell, $1,484.88; in the populous county of Boone, only $31.36; in the county of Breathitt, $2,314.88; in the county of Caldwell, only $9.00; in the county of Clay, $1,673.44; in the county of Kenton, including the large city of Covington, $339.60; and in the county of Knott, $1,205.44; in the county of Campbell, including the city of Newport, $85.92, and in the county of Knox, $3,664.58.

These startling differences show that where the officers of the court pay due regard to the interests of the Commonwealth such extravagant expenses are entirely unnecessary to attain the ends of justice. In considering the large sums paid on account of witnesses in some of these counties, the conclusion might be reached that a large portion of the adult population are regularly mustered into the service of the State as witnesses to attend during the term of the court. In fact, claims have been made on the Auditor for such continuous service when the attendance of the witnesses seemed entirely needless. These expenditures might be tolerated if followed by any useful result; but, unfortunately, the expenses for criminal prosecutions seem to bear an inverse ratio to the amount of justice dispensed.

The only means of putting an end to such abuses, seems to be the enactment of a law forbidding payment to witnesses and jurors except for the time they are actually before the court, and giving authority to the Auditor to reject all unreasonable claims. Heavy penalties should also attach to officials who misstate the necessity of the attendance of witnesses, or who cause them to be summoned without probable necessity.

The expenditure on account of idiots is becoming an increasing burden on the State, costing during the last year $100,021.88, having increased more than 500 per cent. during the last twenty years.

The recommendation in my message to your predecessors in this regard, is renewed—that they be maintained by the counties where they reside. In this way, only, can imposition be avoided.

I desire to emphasize the recommendation of the Auditor for additional legislation rendered necessary by decisions of the Court of Appeals in the Bowler and other cases. Under these decisions it appears that there are not less than $100,000 due by corporations to the State for taxes, which can not be collected until legislation shall provide the means of collecting it.

Other recommendations made by the Auditor are also commended to your favorable consideration.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER.

The Insurance Bureau, as at present organized, is an adjunct to the Auditor's department, through whose chief the report of the Commissioner is transmitted.

This report will give you a succinct and intelligent view of the operations of the Bureau, and advise you of the protection furnished to the public by the careful supervision exercised by its chief.

Your attention is invited to the recommendations embodied in his report.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report of the Treasurer of the State will show the financial transactions of that department. A separate report is made of that portion of the term embraced by the incumbency of the late defaulting Treasurer.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The forthcoming report of the Director of the Geological Survey will show that great progress has been made in extending a knowledge of the mineral resources of the State. The value of extensive beds of coking coal, foreshadowed in former reports, has been demonstrated within the last few weeks by actual test in the blast furnace. These beds extend through a number of counties from Pike to Bell. Iron ores of great richness, amongst them the Oriskany, so well adapted to the manufacture of steel, have been found in the same localities convenient to the coal.

Extended observations in Western Kentucky have made known additional beds of iron and coal, and other valuable minerals, and revealed an extensive district stored with oil and natural gas.

A complete and valuable map of the State has also been completed and published by the Geological Survey.

A liberal appropriation for the Survey is recommended, as the most economical way of attracting capital for the rapid development of the unsurpassed natural resources of the State.

INSPECTOR OF MINES.

Your consideration is asked of the recommendations made by the Inspector of Mines, in the accompanying report, in respect to slight amendments in the existing laws, which will enable him more effectually to protect the lives and health of those engaged in mining operations. His report gives all needed information in regard to the varieties, quality and output of coals in the State, and shows a progressive development of that large and important interest.

AGRICULTURE, HORTICULTURE AND STATISTICS.

The report of the Commissioner of this department embodies a variety of interesting and useful information in relation to the agricultural, manufacturing and mining interests of the State. Too much praise can not be awarded to the Commissioner for his indefatigable industry in collecting, with the limited means at his disposal, such a store of facts bearing upon nearly every interest of the people.

The table which he presents of the value of property exempt from taxation will be of special interest to the General Assembly, since at every session, attempts are made to increase the list of exempted property. As the effect of such legislation is to impose additional burdens on property which has to bear all the expenses of government, both general and local, every effort should be made by those who represent the interests of the people, not only to prevent the augmentation, but to reduce the amount of property exempted from taxation by existing law.

The value of every class of property now exempt, is ascertained by the Commissioner to amount, approximately to $227,465,388.25, which represents, for the State government alone, at the present rate of taxation, an annual tax income of $1,080,460.59. But as existing laws prevent the collection of any tax on this property, an additional tax must be levied upon other property to make up the deficit.

It is true that the value of State and county property, which should not be taxed, is included in the estimate of the Commissioner, but after deducting all values for property having an equitable claim for exemption, it may be safely assumed that a tax of not less than a half million dollars is annually imposed upon that class of citizens least able to bear it, in consequence of improper exemptions granted to more favored classes. Your attention is earnestly invited to a consideration of this subject, with a view of correcting the wrongs now imposed upon the community at large for the benefit of the few.

REGISTER OF THE LAND OFFICE.

The report of the Register of the Land Office will show the improvements in the system of registration and ready reference in that department, which has become nearly self-sustaining.

In this connection it is proper to state that the present system of surveys, and of entering lands claimed to be vacant, probably leads to many complications in regard to titles of land.

In a large portion of the State there are so many conflicting titles that the development of the country is seriously affected.

Legislation, which will be equitable in its character, is essential to the settlement of these differences, and necessary for the proper development of the country, and is earnestly recommended for your consideration.

COMMON SCHOOLS.

You are referred to the report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction for the condition of the Common Schools of the State. It shows that the per capita for educational purposes for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1888, 1889 and 1890, amounted respectively to one dollar and ninety cents, two dollars and five cents, and two dollars and fifteen cents, and that the aggregate expenditures from the Public Treasury for those purposes during the years mentioned will be $1,248,203.10 for 1888, $1,363,209.10 for 1889, and $1,455,132.90 for the present fiscal year.

During the present year the per capita being $2.15, the sum of $1,455,132.90 is apportioned as follows:

To 565,451 white children, the sum of $1,215,719.65; to 111,355 colored children, the sum of $239,413.25.

During the fiscal year 1887, of the sum of $165,971.84 expended on schools for colored children, only $12,545.65 were contributed by colored tax-payers. A proportionate contribution has been paid in subsequent years, thus illustrating, in a remarkable manner, the interest taken by the white population in improving the condition of the colored race by so heavily taxing themselves.

It will be seen that more than half the revenue of the State is thus devoted to purposes of public education, exceeding the percentage allotted in almost every other State of the Union for such purposes.

In addition to the sum thus paid by the State Government, special local taxes are levied in some counties to supplement the State aid.

In this connection your attention is invited to the suggestions of the Superintendent, who, quoting from high educational authority, says, "local taxation is the life of the whole school system." Entire dependence upon the State enervates local effort. It is suggested that every county be required to supplement the State aid by a county levy, which shall amount to a fixed percentage of the contribution made by the State. A double benefit would result from such action, an increase in the amount of the school fund, and an additional interest in the local schools by the people of the several counties. Other suggestions of the Superintendent are commended to your attention.

AGRICULTURAL AND MECHANICAL COLLEGE.

The report of the President and Board of Trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical College will show the great development of that institution. Its great advantages to the people of the State can not well be exaggerated. Offering opportunities, as it does, for a useful education to a large class of our people who have not the means of procuring so good an education elsewhere, it merits your fostering care. Eighty counties of the State are now represented in the College, and every legislative district is entitled to send a pupil free of tuition.

The Normal Department of the College offers an opportunity of educating the best teachers for our common schools.

As rapidly as the means at the disposal of the Trustees will permit, the higher branches of science are being taught; the ultimate design being to qualify our young men for practical work in agriculture and mechanical science, and enable them to till the ground intelligently, to construct roads, to open mines, and to superintend the erection of buildings intended for manufacturing establishments. To accomplish these purposes additional buildings are required to accommodate the increasing number of pupils, and to place the College abreast with institutions of similar character. The recommendations of the Board of Trustees are fully indorsed.

LIBRARY.

The report of the Librarian shows that much labor and intelligent care have been bestowed in rearranging and preserving the books, and in the care of the public property.

The Library contains nearly eighty thousand volumes, scattered through about twenty rooms, having no connection with each other, situated in three different buildings, and constantly exposed to danger of destruction by fire. Many of the books have, heretofore, been stored in basement rooms, but have been rendered accessible by the present arrangement and classification.

It is essential that other rooms should be provided, both for convenience of arrangement and for the security of these valuable books, which could not be replaced in case of destruction.

A special law library should also be formed separate from the general library, and located in a consultation room, which should be provided for the Court of Appeals.

Many improvements have been made, adding to the sanitary condition of the Capitol and grounds, and to the convenience of the General Assembly.

I desire to commend the Librarian for his diligent and intelligent attention to the varied and extensive duties which devolve upon his office.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

In this connection it is my duty to report that, as required by section 7 of the act establishing the Kentucky Historical Society, approved February 19th, 1880, the Executive took possession of the property of that Association, which had ceased to hold its meetings, and placed it in charge of the Librarian. The collection remains in the rooms assigned for that purpose by the act, and has since been increased by the addition of the "Collins" Library of 2,200 volumes, containing valuable information connected with the history of the State. The importance of continuing a collection so essential to our history can not be too highly estimated. Such legislation is recommended as will lead to the retention of this Society as a department of the Library, and authority to appoint a custodian peculiarly qualified for the duties of a historiographer.

ELEEMOSYNARY INSTITUTIONS.

You are referred to the reports of the different boards and superintendents of the various charitable institutions of the State, and to the reports of the State Inspector and Examiner, for the condition of these institutions. They have been administered with every economy consistent with the entire comfort and proper treatment of the unfortunate inmates.

Changes have been made in the superintendency of two of the Lunatic Asylums; in the Western Asylum in consequence of the declination of the former superintendent, and in the Central Asylum in consequence of the faulty administration of the former incumbent.

Under the administration of the present superintendent of the Central Asylum, greater comforts and better care have been given to the inmates, the grave faults of administration on the part of his predecessor have been corrected, an accumulated indebtedness of about five thousand dollars, which had been incurred by his predecessor, has been discharged, and, in addition thereto, a sum of about ten thousand dollars of the appropriation for the year remained unexpended, and was covered into the Treasury of the State.

The administration of this, and of the other Asylums of the State, has demonstrated the correctness of the view which was expressed to your predecessors, that under proper care and supervision the present per capita allowance for the inmates of these institutions is larger than is necessary for their proper care and comfort. It is, therefore, recommended that this per capita allowance be reduced to one hundred and forty dollars per annum.

INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN.

The report of the Trustees will make known to you the disaster which befell this institution, in the destruction of the buildings by fire in April of the present year. Fortunately the precaution had been taken to carry a good line of insurance on the buildings, by means of which, in connection with the material saved from destruction, the Trustees have been enabled to restore the buildings. An appropriation will be needed to provide furniture for the completed buildings, and is recommended for your favorable action.

BRANCH PENITENTIARY.

An act of the last General Assembly devolved upon the Governor the duty of so modifying the original plans as to permit the construction of the Branch Penitentiary with the appropriation authorized by the act. It is believed that this will be accomplished without the necessity of further appropriations. The only additional aid that may be asked will be for the construction of a branch railway, less than a mile in length, to connect the Penitentiary with existing lines of railway. The cell-rooms are practically completed, and the shops and other buildings will be finished in a few months.

The report of the Superintendent will show, in detail, the progress of the work.

In connection with the construction, the Executive has effected a lease of the Branch Penitentiary for a term of years, as authorized by the act of the General Assembly.

COMMISSIONERS OF SINKING FUND.

The report of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund is herewith submitted for your information. It shows the improvements which have been made in the Penitentiary buildings at Frankfort, the completion of the new shops in place of those destroyed by fire, the introduction of fire-plugs to lessen the dangers from fire, and the general sanitary improvements which have resulted from the necessary changes.

A small appropriation is asked to enable the Commissioners to make suitable changes in existing buildings for the better accommodation of the convicts. An inspection of these buildings by your committees will show the necessity of such a change. The cells heretofore unoccupied are being arranged for occupancy. When completed there will be 740 cells in the Frankfort Penitentiary, and when the Branch Penitentiary shall have been completed there will be 416 additional cells, making total prison accommodations for 1,158 prisoners. It is estimated by the Warden that there will be 1,300 prisoners by March 1, 1890, being 142 more than can be accommodated in the cells. It results that some additional provision of law must be made for the proper care of this excess, either by the construction of additional cells or by some other method.

In view of the difficulty of procuring labor for the construction of railroads now penetrating the mountain section of the State, where this labor has been used with great benefit to the public, it is recommended that authority be given to the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to continue the lease of this labor on public works so necessary for the development of the industries of the State.

You are referred to the report of the Commissioners for information of the difficulties encountered in effecting the lease of the prison labor. Though the letting was extensively advertised, and bids invited from every part of the country, but one bid was made for the labor of the Frankfort Penitentiary, and the lease effected, which barely relieves the State of the expenses, is much better than the bid that was made.

The working of the parole law has been doubly beneficial. It improves the discipline of the prison by holding out to prisoners hopes of the enjoyment of its benefits, and it releases from the prison, during good behavior, those who have shown a disposition to reform.

Fifty prisoners have been admitted to the benefits of this law, against only one of whom have complaints of misconduct been lodged.

Occasionally there are sent to the Penitentiary children of tender age, who ought not to be incarcerated with habitual offenders.

A law should be enacted authorizing the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to place such juvenile offenders in some House of Reform at the cost of the county from which they have been sent. In one case, a child, about ten years old, was sentenced to imprisonment for life. To have pardoned him without conditions would have been to have returned him to the same influences which led to the commission of the crime of which he was convicted. Fortunately, some good people were willing to take upon themselves the care of this child, and when the proper authority as his guardian was obtained, the Executive exercised, in this case, his prerogative of pardon. But the conduct of such cases should be regulated, as suggested, by proper enactment.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The biennial report of the State Board of Health will show that it has exerted a beneficial influence in preventing the spread of epidemics and in improving the sanitary condition of the people. The recommendation of the Board that a contingent fund be provided to be used in their discretion, subject to the approval of the Governor, in the emergency of a threatened epidemic, as of yellow fever or cholera, is commended for your favorable consideration.

MINERAL RIGHTS.

The demand and prospect of an early development of the mineral resources of the State have led to the purchase, from the proprietors, of large bodies of land, of the right to the various minerals which are found in the earth. While these minerals are a part of the realty, and liable to be assessed to the owner of the soil, it is believed that the proprietor, having parted with his right to the minerals, no longer considers them as his property, and returns the value only of the surface of his lands; while the owner of the mining rights, not being the proprietor of the soil, neglects to make any return of his property at all. As a result of this divided ownership, the revenue is defrauded, and an undue taxation levied upon other property to make up the deficit.

Additional legislation seems necessary to assure a more equitable assessment of these mineral lands.

BANK INSPECTOR.

I renew the recommendation made to your predecessors for authority to appoint an Inspector of State Banks.

The power which authorized the formation of these institutions, giving them the right to receive on deposit the money of the people and granting them extraordinary powers as corporations, should require the banks to publish periodical statements of their condition, and provide a system of examination and inspection, which should give reasonable assurance to depositors that the banks observe the terms of their charters, and are managed in a conservative and business-like manner. This can be done by authorizing the appointment of a Bank Inspector, who, under the authority of the Governor or Auditor, shall be required to examine periodically into the condition of every such institution. The stronger banks generally desire such an inspection, and it will not be opposed, probably, by any institution which is in a safe condition.

The Bank Inspector should not be a charge on the Treasury, but his salary should be paid by an equitable assessment on the banks which undergo inspection.

RIVER IMPROVEMENTS.

By authority of an act of the last General Assembly, the State Examiner and Inspector was instructed to investigate the condition of the public improvements on Green and Barren rivers, and also the sufficiency of the bond which had been given by the Green and Barren River Navigation Company, with a view of requiring a renewal of their bond. But before this matter could be completed, the com pany had effected a sale of their interest to the United States Government, which took immediate possession of the works, rendering further proceedings under this act impracticable, as the State in ceding the jurisdiction over these rivers had donated the improvements to the government of the United States.

Prior to the consummation of their sale, the report of the Examiner, which showed the works to be in a dilapidated condition, and a copy of the act which created the lease to the company, was transmitted to the Secretary of War for his information.

Since these improvements have been transferred to the U. S. Government, the report of the Chief of Engineers of the U. S. Army shows that prior to the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, the sum of $46,557.77 was expended towards restoring navigation, which had been interrupted by the decay of the works. Work is still progressing, with a view of completely restoring the improvements.

The same report shows that the sum of $891,379.19 was expended on the improvements of the Kentucky river prior to June 30, 1888, restoring the navigation through five locks and dams, and that the further sum of $229,207.57 was expended during the past year in procuring materials for the construction of two other dams on the same stream.

Obstructions have also been removed from the upper portion of the Licking river and from the Big Sandy at a cost, during the last fiscal year, of $12,553.87. Work on Tradewater river was suspended by high water during the last year, the sum of $10,128.46 having been previously expended in the improvement of that stream. Improvements have also been made by the General Government on the Cumberland river, in Kentucky, at considerable cost. The extensive improvements in other States on the Tennessee river and its tributaries have also resulted beneficially to our commerce, as that large affluent of the Ohio passes through the western part of the State.

The United States having accepted the grant from the State of Kentucky of those large streams within our borders for the purpose of improving them, it is our right to claim that the navigation be improved with all reasonable dispatch.

ROAD LAW.

Public and private convenience, the demands of civilization, and the needs of commercial intercourse, alike demand a revision of the road laws of the State.

Equity would seem to demand that all who are benefitted by public roads should contribute to their support in proportion to the benefits derived from their use. This would imply that while the pedestrian should contribute of his labor to improve the road over which he can travel with less fatigue, the landed proprietor, the merchant, and the manufacturer, who are more largely benefitted, should contribute not only of their labor, but of their wealth, for the construction of highways which largely enhance the values in which they are interested.

Each county should have a superintendent of roads, in addition to the ordinary overseers; the road tax collected should be disbursed under the orders of the proper county tribunals, and prisoners serving sentences of imprisonment in the county jails should be required to work on the public highways.

It is hoped that a well-digested law on this subject will be enacted by the present General Assembly.

FOREIGN BUILDING AND KINDRED ASSOCIATIONS.

It will be remembered that prior to the enactment of the present insurance legislation, the people of the State were constantly defrauded through the instrumentality of foreign insurance companies having fictitious capital and being under irresponsible management.

It is believed that the laboring classes of the people are now being extensively defrauded by building and other associations, organized in distant States, whose resources are unknown and whose management is irresponsible. Every such organization should be placed under the supervision of the Insurance Bureau, should be required to file a sworn statement of its condition and assets, and to pay a tax to the State as a preliminary to obtaining permission to operate in the State, and should be subject to the same local rates of taxation as like associations organized under the laws of this State. As at present operated they draw largely upon the resources of the laboring classes in this State without making any corresponding return.

LOTTERIES.

Your attention is invited to the legislation on the subject of the Frankfort Lottery. It is believed that the scheme thereby authorized has exhausted its privileges and has no longer any right to exist. It seems to be conducted now in the interests of a few persons, who derive from it large individual profits at the cost, chiefly, of the poorer classes of the community, who are debauched and, in many cases, led into crime by being tempted to gamble in its policies.

When the General Assembly, by its enactments, denounces crime under severe penalties, it certainly seems opposed to public policy to legalize a corporation which is a constant incentive to crime. It is earnestly recommended that the privileges improperly exercised by this lottery scheme be withdrawn by appropriate legislation.

AUSTRALIAN BALLOT.

The mode of voting known as the Australian Ballot system, which was applied by the last General Assembly to local elections in the city of Louisville, is attended with many beneficial results to the public. The existing law requires amendment to meet Constitutional objections urged by the Court of Appeals

It is suggested that this system be also applied in all local elections in other large cities of the Commonwealth.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The Secretary of State will report to you the result of the vote cast at the last August election, in regard to calling a Convention to revise the present Constitution of the State.

It appears from the report of the Auditor, that if the Convention be called, it will not be necessary to levy a special tax to defray the expenses of that body, as they can be met from the present revenue unless extraordinary appropriations be made for other purposes by the General Assembly.

MUNICIPAL INDEBTEDNESS.

The readiness with which municipal indebtedness is incurred often leads the governments of our cities and counties, in order to supply an imaginary want, to mortgage the interests of a remote posterity to supply the financial needs of the present hour. So reckless has been the conduct of some of our municipalities in this regard as to have resulted in greatly retarding public and individual progress in a number of localities, and in practically disorganizing local civil government.

It is recommended that to prevent the recurrence of such evils, the General Assembly enact a law which will restrict all municipal indebtedness to a small percentage of the assessed valuations of property.

CENTENNIAL.

It is the custom with individuals and amongst peoples to celebrate in some fitting way important events or eras in their history. In the year 1892 the State of Kentucky will have completed the first hundred years of its existence as a free Commonwealth, and as a not unimportant factor in the constellation of the Union. The same year will complete the fourth century since the discovery of the American Continent by Columbus.

It is believed that the General Assembly will take proper measures to commemorate events so important in our history, and will show by its action that the patriotic spirit of the past exists in the present, and promises an unending endurance.

IMMIGRATION AND CAPITAL.

There is a general desire for more capital, and Kentucky is not an exception to the rule; but capital only seeks fields where it expects to find remuneration, and immigration follows closely on the heels of capital to supply the labor necessary for development. The work of the Geological Survey has demonstrated the existence of immense mineral wealth in the State which can be easily developed, with flattering promise of compensation. To bring capital and immigration to the State it is only necessary to convince the world that we have fields sufficiently promising to attract them. It is believed that this can be easily done by a comparatively small appropriation, placed at the disposal of some appropriate official, with directions to establish at some proper point a Bureau of Information, where evidences of the mineral and agricultural wealth of the State shall be kept permanently on exhibition, and proper information furnished to all who may seek a further knowledge of the inducements which can be offered for immigration to the State. The subject is commended to your consideration.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S DEPARTMENT.

It was intended that you should be advised fully in regard to all important pending litigation in which the State is involved, and which is in charge of the Attorney-General, but the report on that subject, which was sought, has not yet been received at the Executive office.

I desire, however, to renew the recommendations made to your predecessors in regard to the importance of such an organization of this department as will enable its chief officer to supervise and direct the action of prosecuting officers in every part of the State. The flagrant derelictions of duty on the part of some of these officials are shown in other parts of this communication.

The necessity of such an organization is further emphasized by a statement of the Auditor, who says: "Hundreds of small judgments obtained by the Commonwealth against delinquent officials and their sureties on bonds to secure the collection of the revenue, to secure fines and forfeitures for sales of lands, for taxes due from corporations, and for numerous other proceedings attending the enforcement of the laws of the State remain unpaid, simply because of the inability of the Attorney-General to give the proper time to their collection, and because of the lack of data in his office, or within his reach, from which to obtain the necessary information."

His office should be one of record, to which all public fines should be reported. He should be furnished with a clerk and an assistant to aid him in attending to the numerous and onerous duties which would devolve upon him in such a reorganization of his department. The compensation of these officials would amount to only a small percentage of the resulting collections.

UNNECESSARY LEGISLATION.

The Acts of the late General Assembly are published in three large volumes, aggregating 3,380 pages of printed matter. Of these acts only 213 were general acts, 1,420 were local acts, and 460 were of a strictly private nature.

It is not the purpose of the Executive to question the right of the General Assembly to consult its own ideas of duty and propriety in regard to the subjects on which it may choose to legislate, but it is deemed proper to ask your consideration of the amount of previous legislation which was altogether unnecessary, because it was already provided for by existing law.

The general acts of incorporation, applicable to all classes of associated business, with the exception of railroads, banks, and insurance, make ample provision for the creation, without further legislative action, of corporations desiring to engage in business. These general acts of incorporation, while carefully guarding the public interests, grant to corporations, organized in pursuance of their provisions, every necessary power.

But, either with a view of obtaining powers which ought not be granted, or to obtain a charter for speculative purposes, or to throw the cost of organizations for purely private objects on the people of the State, previous Legislatures have been flooded with bills having for their object the attainment of ends already provided for by existing law.

As a result of such importunities, nearly one-third of the legislation of the last General Assembly, covering more than a thousand pages of the printed acts, was entirely unnecessary for the public interests, because it was already provided for, and entailed upon the people a cost of nearly fifty thousand dollars for matters in which they were not at all interested.

With a view of putting an end to the granting of charters for purely speculative purposes, it is earnestly recommended that a small tax be charged on every charter granted by the Legislature, or procured under the general acts of incorporation, and that all charters granted under the general acts of incorporation be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State. This tax need not exceed one-tenth of one per cent. on the capital stock of the company, and its payment to the Secretary of State should be a prerequisite to the vitality of the charter, which should expire by limitation if the tax be not paid within six months from the granting of the charter. There should be a further requirement that not less than five per cent. of the capital stock of such corporation should be paid into the Treasury of the State, to be held in trust for the corporation, and to be returned on satisfactory evidence produced before the Secretary of State that the corporation has complied with the mandatory terms of its charter.

It is also suggested that only a limited number of the private and local acts be printed, thus avoiding a large and unnecessary expense.

STATE INSPECTOR AND EXAMINER.

The report of the State Inspector and Examiner will show the great benefits resulting to the State from the investigations made by that official.

He has attended and verified the settlement every month between the Auditor and Treasurer, and has seen that the funds required to be on hand are actually in bank to the credit of the Treasurer. He has inspected carefully the public works of the State, and furnished information necessary for the intelligent action of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund in regard to them.

He has maintained under constant supervision, the various charitable Institutions of the State, and the information thus obtained has served as a basis for the correction of abuses.

He has detected and exposed wrong-doing on the part of officials who handle public money, which will result in diverting to the Treasury, large sums of money which have been improperly withheld from the State, and wrongfully appropriated to private uses.

During the prosecution of other investigations which have been directed, it is believed that other wrongs will be exposed, and that the services of this official will result in an annual saving to the Commonwealth of many thousand dollars.

His accompanying reports are commended to your careful consideration.

STATE GUARD.

The report of the Adjutant General will inform you of the condition of the State Guard, and of the measures taken to improve its instruction and discipline.

The interesting and patriotic occasion offered in the celebration at New York City of the centennial of the inauguration of Washington as the first President, afforded the opportunity of bringing a portion of the State Guard in friendly competition with the troops of other States. It is gratifying to report that the Kentucky troops did not suffer in the comparison, but fully sustained the reputation which the State has justly won for the excellent quality of its soldiers.

Two military camps of instruction were held during the past summer, at which most gratifying progress was made in the instruction and discipline of the troops.

Companies were organized, with beneficial results, in Pike and Perry counties, where much lawlessness prevailed. This could be done only by disbanding other companies, as the number is limited by law.

Authority should be given to organize additional companies when needed to support the civil authorities, thus avoiding the expense and delay incident to sending troops from a distance. Numerous calls have been made on the Executive for troops to aid in the enforcement of the law, but in only two instances—in Perry and Harlan counties—was it deemed necessary to supply them. It is to be regretted that on those occasions the civil authorities did not fully avail themselves of the presence of the troops to organize civil posses to arrest offenders. The presence of the troops maintained order, but on their departure the violations of law were resumed, the civil authorities apparently being impotent to enforce the law, or not fully sensible of their duty to the public.

RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The report of the Railroad Commissioners shows that there will be in operation in this State at the close of the present year 2,835 miles of railway, being an increase of 232 miles during the year. In addition to these completed roads 100 miles are under rapid construction and will be in operation within the next few months.

The gross earnings of the roads operating in this State amounted during the year to $14,400,496.00; the operating expenses to $8,778,199.00; the net earnings being $5,893,177.00; the net earning being 17 per cent. of the assessed valuation, which amounted to $44,690,903.00. This shows a very prosperous condition of the roads. Taxes were paid, however, on only $34,174,272.00 valuation of railroad property, as the residue, amounting to $10,516,631.00, is at present exempt from taxation by the terms of their charters.

The report shows that the valuation of their property returned to the Auditor by the railroad companies is, as usual, far below the proper valuation, and was increased by the Commission in the sum of $9,854,861.00, thus realizing a tax of $46,810.00 in excess of what it would have been but for the careful investigations of the Commission.

Your attention is especially invited to the reports of the Commissioners on the subject of extortion practiced by certain companies, and the refusal of others to receive and deliver freights moving over competing lines, which result in heavy losses to shippers.

I respectfully urge upon the General Assembly the necessity of granting additional powers to the Commission, to enable them to protect the people against the wrongs thus inflicted by some of these corporations.

All railroad bridges across the Ohio river should also be placed, for purposes of assessment, under the supervision of the Commission.

For the better security of the traveling public, the Commission should also be empowered to employ an expert, when necessary, to examine into the condition of railroad bridges, which may be considered unsafe, the costs of such examination to be assessed upon the corporation. Ample powers should be conferred on the Commission to require such bridges to be rendered safe, under proper penalties to negligent corporations.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

Republican government is based upon the theory that a free people are capable, under ordinary circumstances, of enforcing the observance of their laws through the instrumentality of civil officers of their own selection. It may be safely assumed that a large majority of every community are ready to sustain these officials whenever they show an earnest purpose to punish infractions of law. Yet nothing is more common than to find civil officers disregarding their plain duty, either by failure to issue proper process, or by neglecting, and even refusing, to serve process placed in their hands for execution. Citizens, too, when summoned to aid in the arrest of offenders, often fail and frequently refuse obedience to the summons. Yet under these circumstances it seldom happens that any attempt is made to bring these infractions of law before the grand juries, or if their attention is called to these neglects, they are usually ignored.

In every case of lawlessness on an extended scale, which has been investigated, the cause is directly traceable to the neglect of civil officials. The example which they set of disregard of duty, is followed by the masses of the people, who, instead of seeking from the courts redress for their supposed wrongs, despair of that remedy, and resort to violence to attain their ends. In the face of such a contingency, it happens that in many cases, where these disorders have been primarily induced by the disregard of duty by the officers of the law, these officials assume that the matter is beyond their control, and without making any effort to enforce the observance of law, content themselves with calling upon the Executive for an armed force, from a distance, to discharge the duties which a slight effort of the local authorities would enable them to perform without extraneous assistance.

It has been the effort of the Executive to show that the people should rely upon themselves to enforce obedience to their laws. If habituated to rely upon military force to serve civil process, they lose confidence in the methods prescribed by law, and are educated to subordinate their legitimate, constitutional government, to one of military force alone, which is opposed to every principle of free government.

It is for this reason, that while every purpose has been shown to sustain the judicial authorities by such military force as was necessary, care has been taken, while giving this assistance, not to substitute the military arm for the civil posse authorized and required by the law, and placed at the disposal of the judicial officers for the purpose of arresting offenders. If troops were thus substituted on only a few occasions, the result would be, that the sheriffs of many counties in the State would invariably call for troops to discharge duties which can be performed by citizens of the locality, under existing law; and an army would be required, at a heavy cost to the State, to discharge ordinary police duty in the counties.

The Executive, in being required to take care that the laws are executed, is very properly restricted to the agencies provided by the laws for their enforcement. He can support the civil authorities, but can not supercede them. If they disregard or neglect their duty, the laws provide for the procedures necessary to punish the neglect. If the laws are defective in this regard it is for the legislative department of the government to provide the remedy.

From the statements that have been made it is apparent that existing legislation has failed entirely to maintain order in a number of counties. Numerous assassinations have been committed, yet the criminal is not arrested. Citizens refuse to obey the summons of the sheriff, yet their names are not reported. Ministerial officers fail or refuse to serve warrants placed in their hands, yet they are not prosecuted. Judicial officers neglect and even refuse to issue process, yet they are not held accountable. If the circuit judge were earnestly to discharge his whole duty many of these difficulties would disappear; but it unfortunately happens that sometimes even that high judicial position is not filled by a man sensible of his responsibility to the public.

To accomplish this desirable object heavier penalties should be affixed to the neglect of public duty, both by officials and by other citizens; a department of justice, under the control of the Attorney-General, should be organized on such a basis as will enable him to compel the local prosecuting officers to discharge their duty; and the General Assembly, in the discharge of the high trust imposed on them by the people, should carefully investigate the conduct of judicial officers, who may have disregarded their duty, and exercise, when necessary for the public good, the power of impeachment or removal from office.

Additional legislation is also needed to provide for the assignment of some other circuit judge where the regular judge, from any cause, is absent. This necessity will be apparent when the recent action of the Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District is considered.

In a communication dated November 13th, 1889, the judge informed the Executive that unless a guard was sent to accompany him on the circuit he "would not attempt to hold courts at Letcher, Knott or Breathitt." As no information had reached the Executive Office to show that any organization existed in opposition to the civil authorities in those counties, no troops were sent, and in some of those counties, as I am informed, courts have not been regularly held by the circuit judge since that time.

While the Executive has no control over the movements of any judicial officer, it becomes his duty to invite the attention of the General Assembly to a declaration by the judge of that district which was equivalent to an abdication of the duties of his office and a denial of justice to the people. If high officials of the State can refuse to make even an attempt to discharge the duties imposed upon them, the execution of the laws becomes impossible. The correspondence on the subject is herewith submitted for your information.

HARLAN AND PERRY COUNTIES.

The failure to discharge their duty on the part of the civil officers of Harlan and Perry counties, for the details of which you are referred to the accompanying reports of the Adjutant-General, shows either their inability or their unwillingness to discharge the duties imposed upon them by law. The result of their inaction is a travesty on justice, reflecting not only on the officers themselves but also on the people, in their failure to choose more efficient public servants.

Under all the circumstances, it is believed that the public interests would be advanced if the General Assembly were to repeal the acts organizing the counties of Harlan and Perry, and distribute their territory to the jurisdiction of the adjacent counties.

JEFFERSON CIRCUIT COURT.

While the Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District has failed to discharge the duties of his office, and has thus rendered himself amenable to legislative investigation, the Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court has repeatedly exceeded the limits of his authority by invading the domain, both of the Legislative and Executive branches of the State government.

A disreputable character, under sentence of the Jefferson Circuit Court for a brutal and aggravated assault on an unoffending person, was serving a term of imprisonment for five years in the county jail. About one year had been thus served. The case had long passed beyond the legitimate control of the circuit judge; but notwithstanding this fact, the judge of the court issued an order on June 19, 1888, reciting that "the defendant being in bad health, and it being considered by the Commonwealth's Attorney that defendant had been adequately punished, the unexecuted part of the judgment is suspended and defendant discharged." He was accordingly released, and seems to have resumed at once his career of crime. Learning that he was serving a term of imprisonment in Ohio, a requisition was made for his surrender. The Attorney-General was requested to move the circuit judge to rescind his former illegal order, which was done on the urgent insistence of that officer. The predatory and vicious life of the criminal seems to have been physically beneficial to him, as the judge, reciting that the health of the offender had improved, made an order rescinding the former action in his case. On the expiration of his term of imprisonment in Ohio the criminal was surrendered, and is now serving the remainder of his term in the Jefferson county jail.

The State Inspector, while investigating the collections of fines due the State, discovered another practice of this court which illegally diverts money from the public Treasury and appropriates it to the uses of officials of the court. The law allows certain officials a percentage of fines, specially limiting the amount thus allotted to the percentage on the amount actually collected, the Commonwealth being entitled to forty-five per cent. of such portions of these fines as may be collected. But the judge of the court, assuming both Executive and Legislative functions, in a number of cases has ordered that only fifty-five per cent. of the fine assessed shall be collected, all of which is distributed amongst the officials, remitting, without authority of law, all the remainder. As the State is entitled to forty-five per cent. of all sums collected, it follows that, under the illegal orders of the court, on every thousand dollars thus collected, four hundred and fifty dollars are virtually abstracted from the State Treasury and distributed amongst officers of the court. This seems not to have been an uncommon practice in this court.

Your attention is also invited to the report of the State Inspector and Examiner, on the action of this court in regard to the funds ordered into the possession of the Trustee of the Jury Fund. It is believed that the only authority which the court had in the premises under existing law, was to direct that a sufficient sum should be paid over to the Trustee to enable him to defray the expenses of the court. The Trustee could not legitimately use any additional sum. But instead of limiting him to this amount, as a just regard for the public interests would seem to demand, the court, since 1880, has ordered into his keeping more than half a million dollars in excess of the amount necessary to pay the expenses of the court. The only result of this was to enable the trustee to speculate on this public money, and in addition to earning interest for his individual benefit, to withhold from the State, as commissions, for which no service was rendered, the sum of more than $22,000, which, added to the interest earned by him, made a sum of nearly $30,000 rightly belonging to the Commonwealth. The Attorney-General has instituted legal proceedings to recover this sum.

FINES.

It was urged upon the last General Assembly to amend the law on the subject of the collection of fines in such manner as to require them to be paid directly into the State Treasury, and that the percentages allowed the prosecuting and other officers be afterwards paid to them from the fund thus collected. A closer investigation of the subject has accentuated the necessity of such legislation.

The existing statute is based upon the theory that every officer of the State, who has an interest in these fines, will consult the public welfare equally with his own. Unfortunately, this theory is not sustained in practice. The law allows to these officials only a certain per cent. of such portions of fines as may be actually collected, but it has become the rule, to which there are some exceptions, to procure the collection of only fifty-five per cent. of these fines, and to distribute this entire amount amongst the officials, the State being defrauded of its just proportion of the sum collected. Abuses in regard to the collection of these fines exist in nearly every section of the State. Petitions are constantly reaching the Executive Office, asking the remission of the State's portion of fines, on the ground that fifty-five per cent. of the amount has been already paid to the officials, who thus withhold from the State its just proportion. The State Inspector, who has been instructed to investigate this subject, and who, for want of time, has been able to make only a partial examination, reports, that in the county of Jefferson alone, about $30,000 of fines remain uncollected since 1880; that where fines have been respited by the Executive for definite periods, there has been entire failure to issue process for collection after expiration of the respite; that there are other judgments for large sums, upon which no executions have ever been issued; others which the commissioner of the jury fund has directed should not be collected; another judgment where the capias is indorsed "Not arrested by order of the court," and others where the court has directed that the Commonwealth should receive no portion of the fines which the Legislature declared should go into the public treasury.

The extent of the loss sustained by the State in consequence of these abuses can not be ascertained, because of the imperfect system of responsibility now existing. That it is very large, may be inferred from the fact that the Auditor's report shows that from the county of Jefferson, including the large population of Louisville, where large fines are imposed by the circuit court, only five hundred dollars and forty-seven cents were paid into the Treasury in 1888 on account of fines, many sparsely settled counties in the State paying more than double that amount.

Many of the abuses which now exist in regard to the collection of these fines would be remedied if the existing law should be so amended as to require all fines, when collected, to be paid to the Auditor without deduction of any commission, and that the officials afterwards receive from the Treasury the percentages to which they are entitled. This amendment is urged upon your attention as absolutely necessary to protect the Treasury from such impositions as have been described.

RAILROAD AND OTHER CORPORATIONS.

The State, in exercising the highest functions of its sovereignty, grants certain franchises to corporations for a dual purpose—first, to enable corporations to do certain specified things for their own benefit; and, secondly, that the franchises thus granted, and which originally belonged to the people exclusively, shall be exercised for the common benefit. It is the duty of the corporations thus created by the act of the people to limit their actions to the powers received, and it is the duty of the agents of the people to supervise the acts of all such corporations in such manner as to protect the people from any attempted impositions and usurpations of corporate power. The individual should not be left to contend single-handed for his rights when infringed by these powerful corporations, for to do this would be, in most cases, a denial of justice by subjecting him to the further displeasure and prosecution of a power whose wrongful action he has resisted. It is the duty of the Government, which, for a public good, has conceded valuable franchises to a corporation, to make every violation of the terms of the charter a public wrong, punishable by appropriate penalties, even to a forfeiture of chartered rights. While these principles are justly applicable to all corporations, the necessity of their application to railways operated in this Commonwealth is emphasized by the action of some of those corporations.

The General Assembly, in discharging a public duty, have deemed it appropriate to organize a Commission for the purpose, amongst other things, of investigating certain abuses of power on the part of railroad companies. The authority of the Commission is limited, being chiefly persuasive in its character. They can investigate complaints, report and, in certain cases, prosecute. But fear of the power of the railroads deters citizens from making complaints of wrongs suffered from a corporation, which can still further punish them for having complained of extortion or discrimination; and the laws are so framed, under the influence of the railways, as not only to refuse adequate protection to the citizen, but to protect the corporation in the infliction of the wrong.

But slight as is the power of the Commission over these corporations, they seem restive under any supervision which may tend to expose their actions. It was for this reason, as appears from the report of a joint committee of both Houses of the last General Assembly, that a concerted attempt was made to procure the enactment of a law abolishing the Railroad Commission, which had made known some of the wrongs committed by these corporations.

This report shows that a large and influential railroad lobby was maintained at Frankfort, "embracing chief officers of railroad corporations, both from Kentucky and Tennessee, attorneys and other officers of railroad companies;" that the object of this lobby was to procure the repeal of the act establishing the Railroad Commission; that to attain this object it brought, from all parts of the State, "the paid local attorneys and agents of railroad corporations, for the purpose of influencing individual members of the General Assembly with reference to railroad legislation;" that it organized an editorial bureau, and "employed agents to go over the State, and obtain interviews favoring the legislation it asked, and had the interviews published in a large number of papers;" that "the Senate and House of Representatives were then flooded with copies of the papers containing the editorials and interviews;" that what purported to be interviews were, in some cases, purely fictitious, and "that the lobby has made a thoroughly organized and extraordinarily powerful effort to dominate the Legislature, and dictate the railroad legislation enacted by it; that undue and illegal means were used to procure the enactment of such legislation; that the statute against lobbying, to-wit: Section 1, article 30, of chapter 29, of the General Statutes, has been flagrantly violated by members of the lobby."

The fact that such illegal methods were resorted to by railroads to avoid proper supervision of their acts is a convincing reason that the people, through their Legislative body, should not only demand the continuance of this supervision, but should largely extend the powers of the Commission; should carefully define what shall constitute extortion and discrimination; should affix adequate penalties for such offences; should make every violation of its charter by a corporation a public offense punishable by indictment, and in cases of an aggravated character should provide for the forfeiture of a charter whose powers have been exceeded by the corporation. As certain vegetation when "ripened by the sun forbids the sun to enter,"

so these corporations owing their very life to the favor of the people would shut out the light which the representatives of the people would throw upon their actions to prevent them from usurping powers not granted in their charters. Such supervision seems absolutely essential to protect the interests of the people against the monopolistic tendency of the times.

Such action can not be construed as in any way unfriendly to railways. They are a necessity of the age. They should be encouraged and protected in the legitimate exercise of the powers granted to them ; but they should not be permitted, either singly or by combinations, to deal unjustly with the people for whose benefit they were chartered, or to usurp with impunity powers which it was never contemplated should be conferred upon them.

As an illustration of the utter disregard, both of public and private rights by corporations, a case now seriously affecting the interests of commerce and labor in the State may be cited.

The Louisville Bridge Company has a contract with certain railroad companies, authorizing them to pass their cars over their bridge. By permission of the city of Louisville, a railway track has been laid by the Bridge Company on a street which connects with this bridge. This track is connected with numerous large manufacturing establishments, which were located with a view of obtaining transportation over all lines connected with this track, the proprietors knowing that they had a right to demand of the railroads, as common carriers, the shipment of their goods over all connecting railways. The railroad companies put forward the bridge company to operate the track in their interest, to receive and deliver freight for the various roads.

In the meantime some of these roads severed their connection with the Louisville Bridge and conveyed their cars over the Kentucky & Indiana Bridge, establishing a connection with the track which led to the manufacturing establishments to which they had been in the habit of delivering their freight. The Louisville Bridge Company claims that these railroad companies had violated a contract with them. If this were so, their remedy was by action against these railway companies. But instead of limiting themselves to that action, the bridge company commenced a war against the innocent shippers, who had nothing whatever to do with the action of the withdrawing railroads. The track which connected with the other bridge was torn up by the Louisville Bridge Company, and that company, while continuing to receive and to handle over the track connecting with its bridge, freights for all companies that pass over it, persistently refuse to receive any freights designed for any road that passes over the competing bridge. While daily acting as a common carrier for the roads with which it is associated, the Louisville Bridge Company declares that it is not a common carrier and will not receive freights intended for any other roads. The action of these associated companies seems like a conspiracy to ruin, financially, a large number of enterprising manufacturers, and to force them to turn away a large number of mechanics now employed by them, unless they patronize the members of this conspiracy.

The details of this transaction are fully shown in the report of the Railroad Commissioners.

The action of the Louisville Bridge Company, and its associates, seems to be a public wrong of so grave a nature, such an outrage on individual rights, and so detrimental to the commercial interests of the people, that directions have been given to institute legal proceedings to vindicate the dignity of the State, and to award to the citizens, who have been thus wronged, the protection due from the government.

But as the processes of law, when powerful corporations are concerned, are very slow, these innocent shippers may be financially ruined before the completion of action by the courts. It is believed that the General Assembly is competent to provide a speedier remedy for the protection of the shippers.

While the city of Louisville has granted its permission to lay the railway track in Fourteenth street, the act is not complete without the consent of the Legislature. It is, therefore, recommended that the action of the city council of Louisville, in this matter, be annulled, and that a new charter be granted to some association, in terms which will secure the rights of the citizens of the State, and enforce obedience to law on the part of corporations.

While the report of a committee of the last General Assembly reveals some of the improper and illegal methods employed by corporations in attempting to influence legislation, it is believed that an impartial investigation, under your authority, will show that many of these corporations resort to the most corrupt means of influencing local elections. Your attention is especially invited to a consideration of this subject. If such methods be acquiesced in, the result will be that the vast sums amassed by these monopolies, in many cases by extorting it from the people, will be employed in corrupting the very sources of free government, and in practically diverting legislation into the hands of corporate power.

A corporation thus abusing its privileges, and corrupting the public morals, should be punished by forfeiting its charter, and the offending officials punished by fine, imprisonment, and deprivation of the rights of citizenship.

TRUSTS AND OTHER CORPORATIONS.

Your attention is invited to the oppression resulting to the people from combinations of capital under the name of "trusts." Fostered as they are by that vicious legislation of the General Government which forbids the masses of the people to seek the markets of the world, either for an advantageous sale of their commodities or the economical purchase of their supplies, resulting as such partial legislation, must necessarily do, in the rapid concentration of capital in the hands of the favored few at the expense of those whose industry earns it, it has become necessary for the legislative department of the State Government to exhaust its constitutional power to protect the people from the insupportable extortions resulting from these hurtful combinations. These trusts assume various disguises, but they have the common object of enhancing the price of articles of prime necessity to the people, and at the same time of reducing the price of the commodities which the producer is forced to sell in order to provide for the necessities of those who are dependent upon him.

Among other methods adopted, corporations from other States have leased productive oil fields, not for the sake of developing them, but for the purpose of preventing their development.

All such combinations, under whatever disguise they appear, are opposed to public policy, and inimical to the best interests of the State. They are actuated by a spirit of greed as injurious to the interests of society and as regardless of its rights as an organized system of brigandage and merit to be visited by the severest penalties.

It will be the pleasing duty of the Executive to unite cordially with the General Assembly, in their patriotic purpose to repress the extravagant demands of individual greed to grow fat at the expense of the public ; to keep within bounds the constant encroachments of corporate power ; and to enact legislation, which, granting exclusive privileges to none, will be just alike to every element of society. By such just measures alone can the public welfare be promoted, and the liberties of a free people maintained.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

Which was done.

The Speaker laid before the Senate a communication from W. L. Jackson, Circuit Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court, replying to certain charges contained in the Governor's message.

Said communication was taken up and read as follows, viz :

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky :

While absent from Kentucky during the Christmas holidays, visiting members of my family in the West, I received, on January 2d, a newspaper containing the Message of Governor Buckner, in which, without warning or notice, he so ruthlessly and malignantly assails my judicial and personal character.

I immediately returned home, and at once address to you this communication, which I respectfully request may be read, printed and referred to that committee for action to which the subject pertains.

In the outset I fully concede that it is the constitutional duty and prerogative of the Governor "to give to the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration, such measure as he may deem expedient." (Section 12, article 3, Constitution of Kentucky.) But this carries with it no right, ignorantly and unjustly, to use the position and power of the Executive Office and the medium of a Message to assail the judiciary or its decisions, or to endeavor by cheap demagogery, to influence the decisions of tribunals, who have under consideration the very questions discussed in such Message, or by this indecent assault upon the manhood of the judiciary, to endeavor to force them to register the wishes of the Governor rather than the dictates of law and right.

Seventeen years of continuous, unremitting service upon the bench in Kentucky, entitled me to the ordinary amenities and decencies of life, and this, apart from those claims which close personal and official relations between Governor Buckner and myself seem to require.

In view of my past career, of the high positions of trust and honor held by me in my native State, Virginia ; of two decades of service in the largest criminal court in Kentucky, in this, my adopted State, in the bosom of which I have purposed my dust shall rest ; with a reputation hitherto unassailed and unsullied ; frequently called upon by Governors McCreary, Knott and Blackburn, for twelve years past, to render special judicial service in those portions of Kentucky termed by Governor Buckner, "lawless portions of the State," and rendering this service to the State, not as a right, but in discharge of that obligation, which every conscientious officer owes to the people amongst whom he lives. Spending months of the most inclement seasons of the year in these remote districts, where I was denied those comforts and conveniences which one of my years and of an eventful life might desire, in the face of the protest of many warm friends, who felt that I was unnecessarily endangering my life by exposure to weather and lawlessness ; bringing order out of judicial chaos in these places, and finding the people ready and willing, upon my appearance among them, to submit to the majesty and supremacy of the law ; and for these acts, receiving, in all instances, the affection of the people among whom I was sent, and the commendation and approval, not only of the officials, but the people of the State.

In view of all this, which the Governor, either willfully forgets, or for a purpose ignores, I submit to the brave, generous, manly people of Kentucky, if it was honorable, fair or decent, for Governor Buckner to assail my official life and character without a word of explanation or suggestion from me.

The Governor makes four specific complaints against me, which I will proceed to take up in the order named by him.

THE MAZZONI CASE.

1st. In this case the judgment, by my order, on motion of the Commonwealth's Attorney, was suspended. It is doubtless true, as the Governor says, that Mazzoni was "a disreputable character." He, Boggs and Loomis, had viciously assaulted Rev. Steve P. Holcombe. Boggs and Mazzoni were first tried and found guilty, fined one thousand dollars each, and imprisoned in the county jail for five years. Loomis was subsequently tried and awarded the same penalty. Afterwards Boggs was tried on a charge of grand larceny, and three previous convictions for felonies. He was found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment for life; he is now in the Penitentiary, where he will remain until death, unless pardoned by the Governor. Loomis has been pardoned by the present Governor. This was done at the request of Mr. Holcombe and others, including myself. I signed this recommendation at the earnest solicitation of Mr. Holcombe, against my own judgment, but I yielded to Mr. Holcombe's appeals for mercy, who, in this, as in many other ways, exhibits the spirit of his Savior.

Mazzoni was in jail, and had been there more than a year. As the June term of my court, in 1888, was about to end, and the summer vacation of two-and-a-half months about to commence, the Commonwealth's Attorney made a motion for the suspension of a judgment, coupled with a statement about some one dying in the last stages of consumption and in jail. The name I did not fully catch, or, if I did, it was not connected with the crime against Mr. Holcombe. Without due examination and consideration, I directed the order to be entered. The Commonwealth's Attorney believed his statement to be true.

Subsequently I learned it was Mazzoni whose judgment had been suspended, but I never knew that he was well and in the work-house at Cincinnati, until Mr. Hardin, the Attorney-General, called upon me, not in court, but in chambers, and gave me such information. It did not require, as the Governor so sensationally puts it, the "urgent instance" of the Attorney-General to set aside this order. So soon as the facts were communicated to me, I gladly and promptly set aside the order and issued a bench order for Mazzoni, and upon this warrant the Governor procured his requisition for Mazzoni, which secured his return to Kentucky, and the Louisville jail, where he is now serving out his sentence.

Without any suggestion whatever from this officer, I stated to him, that on reflection I was satisfied that my order in this case had been an error, and that I was greatly rejoiced that the opportunity was now given me to repair that error by the re-arrest and imprisonment of Mazzoni.

The Attorney-General ought to have, and doubtless did, communicate the substance of this interview to Governor Buckner.

I then conceded, and now concede, that I did not have control over the sentence of Mazzoni, subsequent to the term at which it was entered. While I frankly state to the General Assembly that this was an error, yet it must be remembered that in a period of seventeen (17) years, covering a trial of nearly eleven thousand (11,000) cases, in the Criminal Court of Kentucky, where twice as many cases are tried as in any other court of like jurisdiction in Kentucky, what Judge can hope to prove infallible? This single act, in the most unfavorable aspect, was an unconsidered order made in the belief that it was an act of mercy to a dying wretch, whose last days on earth were made doubly terrible by the heat of summer and the inconvenience and horror attendant upon prison life, and even so infallible a man as Governor Buckner, in his own opinion, could impute nothing more than an oversight, which was long since, and now is, candidly confessed.

2d. It is charged by the Governor, "that there is another practice of this (my) court, which illegally diverts money from the public Treasury and appropriates it to the use of officials of the court."

The State Inspector states this as the result of his investigations, says the Governor. This new officer is in another part of the message highly lauded and declared to be indispensable. I have not the honor of his acquaintance. He never made himself known to me and never announced his mission. His entry and his exit must have been that of a spy. If he makes no better inspections in other cases than he has in mine, he should be discharged. The gravamen of the charge is that it is illegal to set aside a fine upon payment of fees and costs. I must be permitted to differ with the State Inspector and His Excellency.

The Governor says "that this," meaning the practice aforesaid, "seems not to have been an uncommon practice in this court." A State paper, if not able, should be truthful. A diligent search of the records of the Jefferson Circuit Court since 29th January, 1873, the time when I became its Judge, running through a period of about seventeen years, shows only fourteen (14) cases of the character referred to, the aggregate fines amounting to $2,280, is not an average of one a year, although it is true that eight of these cases occurred in one year. Four of the cases were against a lightning-rod man, who, under advise of counsel, refused to take out State license, but who reconsidered, and before trial paid the tax and procured license. On recommendation of the Auditor's Agent and the Commonwealth's Attorney, the cases were settled and dismissed on payment of fees and costs. The grounds on which said cases were dismissed were in writing and filed. The power of a prosecuting attorney to enter a nolle prosequi, or dismissal on grounds in writing filed, is well settled.

I had occasion to examine all the authorities, and to so decide. In the case of Bills against the Commonwealth the written opinion in the case was published and commended in several leading law journals. The other ten cases were where the court should have given peremptory instructions to find for the defendants, or, in trials on the law and facts, had doubts as to the judgments rendered, and was inclined to grant new trials, and the Commonwealth's Attorney, not believing that he could strengthen the cases on subsequent trials, consented to the adjustment. In all of these fourteen cases but one the orders were made during the same term the judgments were rendered. I am not aware that the question has ever been decided by the Court of Appeals, but I do know that circuit judges, since the foundation of the Commonwealth, have claimed or exercised the discretion.

Indeed, the Governor, in his message, admits the law here stated when he so earnestly recommends the Legislature to enact laws restraining Commonwealth's attorneys from exercising the power. As judge I must deal with the law as it is. As it now is, in my judgment, the Commonwealth's Attorney represents the State. He, under the restrictions of the law, regulates the disposal of the cases of the Commonwealth. The court does not prosecute; it stands between the Commonwealth and the accused.

Codes and statutes do not contain all the law. Courts, in the administration of justice, have certain inherent powers; these are to be exercised in furtherance of justice.

3d. Your attention is called by the Governor to the fact that, by the Auditor's report, it is shown "that from the county of Jefferson, including the large population of Louisville, where large fines are imposed by the circuit court, only five hundred dollars and forty-seven cents were paid into the Treasury in 1888 on account of fines," and comparing this collection with that in sparsely settled counties in the State. The fact is, that during said year of 1888 the collection of fines in Jefferson Circuit Court was not large but small. Certain gambling was made a felony, and the jurisdiction of said court was limited to Jefferson county in many finable cases, and until the two acts, entitled "An act defining the jurisdiction of the Jefferson Circuit Court," and "An act defining the jurisdiction of the City Court of Louisville," each of which took effect from and after first day of September, 1888, the Jefferson Circuit Court had jurisdiction of but few indictable misdemeanors committed within the corporate limits of the city of Louisville.

An accurate statement, copied from the records of the Clerk's office of the Jefferson Circuit Court, show that there were forty-nine judgments rendered from June 30th, 1887, to June 30th, 1888, the time which was covered by the State Inspector and Examiner, and these are all accounted for as follows:

24 were served out in jail, amount	$2,100
8 were set aside upon payment of fees and costs	1,030
5 were remitted by the Governor	1,950
2 execution and return no property found	200
1 levy and property bought by the State	50
1 not found	50
8 paid	560
49 cases. Total	$5,940

By right to exercise the power of setting aside fines, etc., has been discussed in the foregoing part of this communication.

Was it not incumbent upon the Governor, before making statements in regard to this matter, derogatory to me, to inform himself of the true condition of the law concerning the Jefferson Circuit Court, and to have honestly stated, that the reason so few fines were collected from the Jefferson Circuit Court, and to have honestly stated that the reason so few fines were collected from the Jefferson Circuit Court was, that jurisdiction for offenses, in which these fines and penalties were imposed in other counties had been taken from Jefferson Circuit Court and conferred upon the Louisville City Court?

4th. In regard to the funds ordered by me into the possession of the Trustees of the Jury Fund.

Prior to the passage of the act, entitled "An act to amend the revenue laws of the Commonwealth," approved May 17, 1886, known as Hewitt bill, a casual inspection of sections 8 and 25, of chapter 62, of the General Statutes, will convince any one of the propriety of my orders. The correctness of my rulings under said chapter, was repeatedly tested, and my decisions were affirmed in three manuscript opinions of the Court of Appeals, two of which cases are styled Commonwealth against Cain, and one Commonwealth against Field.

After the passage of the Hewitt bill, the question was involved in some doubt, but I only made the orders after careful study and examination of the law.

The State Inspector and Examiner called the Governor's attention to these orders, and he, differing from me in my construction of the law, both prior to and subsequent to said act aforesaid, directed the Attorney-General to institute actions to surcharge and falsify the settlement made by Charles Godshaw, Trustee of the Jury Fund. In obedience to that direction the Attorney-General instituted, in the name of the Commonwealth, two actions against Godshaw and his sureties, and, after full argument, my views were concurred in by the able Judge of the Franklin Circuit Court, the fiscal court of the Commonwealth, which was the forum chosen by the Commonwealth for the hearing of said cases.

The judgments in these two cases were appealed from, and are on the appearance docket of the Court of Appeals, and set for February 13th, 1890. Afterwards, upon full argument, I rendered an opinion, adhering to my former views, and these two cases are pending upon appeal in the Appellate Court, and are set for hearing February 15th 1890.

The Governor knows this. It is hardly necessary for me to suggest to your honorable body the manifest impropriety of the Governor criticising judicial decisions, and the great abuse of his power and the outrage perpetrated upon a co-ordinate branch of the government when he attempted so to do; but the Governor seems utterly oblivious to the divisions of the powers of our State Government.

Moreover, Mr. Godshaw has given bond of undoubted strength, and, besides, is sufficiently responsible himself to make good any sum that may be found against him in the event of a reversal of said judgments.

The judicial is supposed to, and should be, the conservative department of the State. Its independence is essential to liberty, happiness and life; destroy that, and our free institutions are imperiled.

This assault of the Governor at least menaces this independence. The fear of such assaults may induce some Judges to fawn and truckle to arbitrary power. I thank God that "I am made of sterner stuff."

I believe that I have now candidly and fully stated the facts concerning the complaints so dramatically and sensationally made by Governor Buckner against me.

The motives which prompted this vicious and ungenerous attack are enigmas to me, unless it be that the Governor, by the reckless and unscrupulous use of his prerogatives as the Executive of Kentucky, feels that he can wantonly assail the official and personal life of any man who will not blindly register his decrees, and by these attacks hope to make for himself that cheap political capital upon which to found further and future political advancement.

During the period I have been Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court, the proceedings show the disposal of 10,735 cases, an average of 631 cases per annum, or $2\frac{1}{2}$ cases for every judicial day of that time, and with so few errors and reversals in these multiple and multiform proceedings, I believe it is a record upon which any man or judge can safely plant himself, and ask the approval of his conscience and his people.

No sadder day for Kentucky will ever dawn than that upon which it is accepted, as either law or precedent, that a judge's opinion or judgments shall be formed or expressed according to Executive demands, or that any judge who does not decide cases or enter orders according to the eternal principles of justice or right, but in obedience to a Governor's wishes, when a judge is to be made the object of gubernatorial invective or spleen.

I hold my commission from the people of Kentucky. I am elected by the sovereign votes of the people of my judicial district. My opinions and decrees, my orders and judgments by law, are made the subject of appeal and review by higher courts chosen in the same way, and to assail them in any way when pending is an imputation upon the character, honor and respect of the bench.

If this great wrong is to go on unredressed, it will not be long until there will be no further need for juries, judges or courts of last resort, but all matters shall be determined and adjudged by the Governor, and when he shall have usurped and controlled every function of the government, then the people will realize and awaken to their danger.

The Governor having failed to have his wishes entered as judgments in the Jefferson Circuit Court and the Franklin Circuit Court, in this attack upon me serves notice upon the Judges of the Court of Appeals that an independent judiciary is not wanted, and that cases not decided to his views subject judges sitting in them to Executive abuse and assault.

Upon these principles no judge's official character and life are safe. These, hitherto held so sacred, and dearer than all else, are now made the sport, play-thing and political stepping-stone of ambitious Executives.

The whole matter, in so far as I am concerned, is fully before the General Assembly.

I request the widest and closest scrutiny of all my acts. It will be found that instead of my usurping the Executive prerogatives, that the Governor is endeavoring to usurp judicial powers, and to intimidate and terrorize the judicial department of our government.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WM. L. JACKSON.

On motion of Mr. Newman :

Ordered, That said communication be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and that 250 copies thereof be printed and laid upon the desks of the Senators.

Mr. Huff read and laid on the table the following joint resolution, viz :

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That a committee, consisting of three from the Senate and five from the House, be appointed by their respective Speakers to examine the records and take into consideration the advisability of abolishing the office of Public Printer and Binder, and letting the same by contract to the lowest and best bidder, and that pending the report of this committee the election of Public Printer and Binder be deferred.

2. This resolution to take effect from its passage.

Which, under the rule, lies over one day.

Mr. Glenn read and laid on the table the following joint resolution, viz :

WHEREAS, The amendments and supplemental acts to chapter 95 of the General Statutes provides that the pay of the Pages of the Senate and House of Representatives be fixed at two dollars per day, the same to be certified by the Clerks of said Houses respectively, but with the proviso that there shall not be more than three Pages for the use of the Senate and four for the House ; and, whereas, there are exceeding said number in each House at this session ; and, whereas, it is right that the pay of said Pages be certified alike ; and, whereas, it further appears that some of the Pages have served from the beginning of the session, but the Journals do not indicate their appointment, nor were they appointed until some days later, and the Clerk can only issue certificates from the time the Journals show their appointment, yet it is right they should be paid from the time of their service ; therefore, be it

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the Clerks of the two Houses be, and they are hereby, authorized and empowered to issue certificates to the Pages at the rate of two dollars per day, and to as many as have been appointed, and will issue certificates to them from the time of their actual services as Pages.

2. This resolution shall take effect from its adoption.

The rule of the Senate requiring a joint resolution to lie one day on the table being dispensed with,

Said resolution was taken up, twice read and adopted.

The Senate, according to order, took up for consideration the joint resolution heretofore offered by Mr. Huff, entitled :

Resolution providing for the appointment of a joint committee to investigate lawlessness in Harlan and Perry counties, and report thereon.

(For resolution, see Senate Journal, January 4th.)

On motion of Mr. Stewart :

Ordered, That the further consideration of said resolution be postponed, and that said resolution be made the special order of the day for Thursday next, January 9th, at 11 o'clock A. M.

An act to incorporate the Farmers' Tobacco Bank, at Fulton, Fulton county ;

A resolution of respect to the memory of Hon. L. M. Martin ;

And had found the same correctly enrolled.

Said bill and resolution having been signed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Speaker of the Senate affixed his signature thereto, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the Governor for his approval and signature.

After a short time, Mr. Glenn reported that the committee had performed that duty.

On motion of Mr. Wortham :

Ordered, That the Senate adjourn until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock A. M.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1890.

The reading of the Journal of yesterday was dispensed with.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they had received official information that the Governor had approved and signed an enrolled bill, which originated in the House of Representatives, entitled :

An act to amend the charter of the town of Catlettsburg.

That they had adopted resolutions of the following titles, viz :

Resolution calling upon the President of the Agricultural and Mechanical College for certain information.

Resolution calling upon the Auditor of Public Accounts for certain information concerning taxes collected for the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Which were referred to the Committee on Education.

Order of Business of the Day.

16. As soon as the Journal is read and approved the Speaker shall call for petitions and leaves. Petitions and leaves having been presented and disposed of, reports, first from the standing and then from select committees, shall be called for; next, motions and resolutions; and if on any day the whole of the committees have not been called, or, being called, shall not have finished their reports, or any report shall not have been disposed of, the Speaker, on the next day, shall commence where he left off on the preceding day, and so on till all are called.

17. The business specified in the preceding rules shall be done at no other part of the day than between the meeting of the Senate and 12 o'clock M., except by leave of the Senate.

18. In all elections there shall be a previous nomination.

19. It shall be in order for the Committee on Enrollments to report at any time.

20. It shall be the duty of the Speaker to direct the Door-keeper and Sergeant-at-Arms to exclude all persons from the bar of the Senate, except the Governor, members and ex-members and attaches of the General Assembly, members of the several departments of State Government, such newspaper reporters as may be authorized by the Speaker to be present, and members of the Federal Congress.

Of Decorum and Order.

21. When a Senator is about to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker," and, being recognized by the Speaker, may proceed, but shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality.

22. If any Senator, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules of the Senate, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Senate, if appealed to, shall decide on the case; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Speaker shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the Senator called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be at liberty to proceed without leave of the Senate; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Senate.

23. If a Senator be called to order by another for words spoken in debate, the exceptional words shall be immediately taken down in writing by the Clerk, that the Speaker be better enabled to judge of the matter.

24. No Senator shall designate another Senator by name.

25. When two or more Senators rise at once, the Speaker shall name the Senator who first addressed the Chair as the one entitled to the floor.

26. No Senator shall speak more than twice to the same question without leave of the Senate, nor more than once until every Senator choosing to speak shall have spoken.

27. Whilst the Speaker is putting any question or addressing the Senate, none shall walk out or across the chamber; nor when a Senator is speaking shall any other Senator entertain private discourse, nor shall he pass between him and the Chair.

28. No Senator shall vote on any question in the event of which he is immediately or particularly interested, or in any case where he was not present when the question was put, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate; and in no case shall such absent Senator be allowed to vote where his vote will change the decision of the question.

29. Every Senator who shall be in the Senate when the question is put shall give his vote, unless the Senate, for special reasons, or the Speaker, upon being satisfied that the motion or request is made for dilatory purposes, shall excuse him.

30. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or, being in writing, shall be handed to the Chair, and read aloud by the Clerk before debated.

31. Every motion may be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any Senator desire it.

32. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or read by the Clerk, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

Dignity and Privilege of Questions.

33. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to fix the time to which the Senate shall adjourn, to adjourn, to lie on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, and a motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall not be allowed on the same day and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

34. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be equivalent to its rejection.

35. When a motion is made to refer any subject, and different committees are named, the question shall be taken in the following order: 1. To a committee of the whole. 2. A standing committee. 3. A select committee.

36. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order; that, and the motion to lie on the table, to suspend the rules, and for the previous question, shall be decided without debate.

37. The previous question being moved and seconded, the question from the Chair shall be, "Shall the main question be now put?" and if the nays prevail, the main question shall not then be put. But a refusal to order the previous question shall not bar the Senate from forthwith proceeding to the consideration of the subject. The effects of the previous question shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon amendments offered, or read, for information before ordering the previous question, and then upon the main question. After the previous question has been ordered, and until it may have been exhausted, no motion shall be allowed by the Speaker, except one motion to adjourn, and one motion to fix the time to which the Senate shall adjourn. A second motion for the previous question shall not be in order on the same day, upon the same question, at the same stage thereof.

38. When a question is postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted on again during the session.

39. Any Senator may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided, if it comprehends questions so distinct that, one being taken away, the rest may stand entire for the decision of the Senate; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed divisible. But a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert. Nor shall a motion to strike out and insert one thing, being lost, preclude a motion to strike out and insert a different thing.

40. Motions and reports on any subject may be committed at the pleasure of the Senate.

41. A motion to postpone, or commit an amendment, thereby to separate it from the main question, shall not be in order.

42. No motion to reconsider any vote given shall be made after the bill, resolution, or other paper, shall have gone out of the possession of the Senate, nor when it remains in the possession of the Senate, unless made within two days (Sundays excepted) after such vote was given, unless a majority of three-fourths present concur therein; and the motion to reconsider shall be a privileged motion, and must be made by a Senator who voted with the prevailing side.

43. No motion or proposition different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

44. When a paper is first presented to the Senate, it shall be a matter of right in any Senator to have it read before the Senate shall vote upon it. If the paper has been once read, or the reading dispensed with, and the reading be again required and objected to, it shall be determined by a vote of the Senate.

45. The unfinished business in which the Senate was engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the orders of the day, or in that class of business to which it appropriately belongs; and no motion or any other business, unless a privileged one, shall be received without special leave of the Senate, until the former is disposed of.

46. The orders of the day shall be taken up at 12 o'clock on each day, unless otherwise ordered by two-thirds of the Senators present.

47. The standing rules of the Senate, and the regular order of business, shall not be suspended or interrupted, unless by a vote of two-thirds of the Senators present.

48. Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the House of Representatives shall be necessary, shall be read to the Senate, and laid on the table one day preceding that in which the same shall be moved, unless the Senate, by a vote of two-thirds of those present, dispense with this rule.

49. Petitions, memorials, and other papers, addressed to the Senate, or the Legislature, shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be verbally made by the introducer before received or disposed of.

50. A proposition requesting information from the Executive, or any of the public officers, or other persons or bodies bound to furnish it, shall lie on the table one day for consideration, unless otherwise ordered by two-thirds of the Senators present; and all such propositions shall be taken up for consideration in the order in which they were presented, immediately after reports are called for from select committees, and when adopted, the Clerk shall cause the same to be delivered.

51. Upon call of the Senate to take the yeas and nays on any question, the names of the Senators shall be called alphabetically.

52. No Senator shall absent himself from the services of the Senate without leave first obtained, or unless he be sick or unable to attend.

53. Upon a call of the Senate, the names of the Senators shall be called over by the Clerk, and the absentees noted, after which the names of absentees shall again be called ; the doors shall then be shut, and those for whom no sufficient excuse is made, by order of those present, shall be taken into custody by the Sergeant-at-Arms as they appear ; or may be sent for and taken into custody wherever to be found, by special messengers appointed for that purpose, or by the Sergeant. When a Senator shall appear, or be discharged from custody, when thus taken, and admitted to his seat, the Senate shall determine whether such discharge shall be with or without paying fees and the expense of such special messenger, and also whether he shall be fined any sum not exceeding the rates of five dollars per day for the time he shall have been absent without leave ; which fees, charges and fines shall be deducted by the Clerk from the pay of such delinquent Senator.

54. The fees of the Sergeant at-Arms shall be—for any arrest, the sum of one dollar ; for each day's custody, and releasement, one dollar ; and for traveling expenses for himself or special messenger, ten cents per mile.

55. No committee shall sit during the sitting of the Senate without special leave, except the Committee on Enrollments and committees of conference.

56. All questions of order shall be noted by the Clerk upon the Journal, with a decision thereon when an appeal shall be taken.

57. All questions relating to the order of business to be acted upon shall be decided without debate.

58. Every motion to alter, change or add to the standing rules of the Senate, shall lie one day on the table. And all resolutions presented shall be received and referred to a committee, unless otherwise disposed of by the Senate.

Of Bills.

59. Every bill shall be introduced on motion for leave, or by report from a standing committee, upon subjects appropriately belonging to such committee, or referred to it by the Senate.

60. At the first reading of the bill, if opposition be made to it, the question shall be, "Shall the bill be rejected?" If no opposition be made, or if the question to reject be negatived, the bill shall go to a second reading without a question; then, if no Senator objects, the Clerk shall note upon his Journal that the constitutional rule has been dispensed with, and immediately the second reading shall take place by the title unless some member desires the reading of the body of the bill; then the Speaker shall state it is ready for amendment, commitment, or debate, and the Senate shall vote thereon accordingly.

61. No bill shall be put upon its final passage until the same be engrossed in a fair and round hand; and all engrossed bills shall have the precedence in the orders of the day, except it be the special orders.

62. When a bill shall pass the Senate, it shall be certified by the Clerk, noting the day of its passage at the foot thereof, and forthwith sent to the House of Representatives for its concurrence; and the like course shall be observed towards amendments of the Senate to bills or resolutions from the House of Representatives.

63. A bill may be recommitted at any time before its passage; and when committed after its engrossment and returned to the Senate, it shall be considered and regarded at its second reading.

64. Bills in the orders of the day shall be acted upon in the order in which they shall have been introduced, or reported from committees or from the House of Representatives, until they shall have been disposed of.

65. No memorial or petition shall be acted upon, praying for the division of a county, the formation of a new county, changing the place of holding any court, or any local matter, unless the provisions of the law requiring notice to be given, be complied with.

66. No bill shall be amended at its third reading, by way of ryder, but by the consent of two thirds of the Senators present.

67. That whenever a bill is reported to the Senate from a committee, the same shall be handed to the Clerk, whose duty it shall be to read said bill, unless the reading be dispensed with by a vote of the Senate.

Committee of the Whole.

68. In forming a committee of the whole, the Speaker shall leave the Chair, and designate some member of the Senate to preside as Chairman.

69. When the orders of the day are called for, after disposing of bills at the third reading, the business in committee of the whole shall next be considered. But special orders, whether in committee of the whole or in Senate, shall take precedence of the general orders in the order of time in which they have been made.

70. Upon a bill being committed to a committee of the whole, the same shall be first read through by the Clerk (unless otherwise ordered by a majority), and then again read for amendment by clauses or sections, leaving the preamble, if any, to be last considered. After report the bill shall again be read, if desired by a majority, for amendment and debate, before a question for engrossing it be taken.

71. The body of the bill shall not be defaced or interlined; but all amendments, noting the page and line, shall be duly entered by the Clerk on a separate paper, and so reported to the Senate as the same shall have been agreed to, and the same shall be considered in the Senate in the order in which they were adopted in committee; and all amendments made to an original motion in committee shall be incorporated with the motion and so reported; and the above rule shall apply to all other subjects in committee of the whole as well as bills.

72. It shall be in order to introduce and discuss any resolution, when in committee of the whole, with a view to test the sense of the Senate upon the question proposed.

73. All questions, whether in committee of the whole or in the Senate (not privileged questions), shall be propounded in the order in which they were moved, except that, in filling up blanks, the largest sum and longest time shall be first put.

74. The rules of proceeding in the Senate shall be observed in committee, so far as the same are applicable, except the rule limiting the time of speaking ; but no Senator shall speak twice to any question, until every Senator choosing to speak has spoken.

Executive Business.

75. All communications from the Governor may be taken up for consideration as ordered by the Senate.

76. That all nominations of officers made by the Governor, except of notaries public, shall be referred to, and reported upon, by an appropriate committee, before they are acted upon by the Senate.

77. When the Senate shall advise and consent to a nomination made by the Governor, or reject the same, it shall be the duty of the Clerk to inform the Governor thereof, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate.

Reports and Messages from the House of Representatives.

78. Bills and resolutions which have passed the House of Representatives, when reported to the Senate, shall be regarded as having their first reading on the report of the Clerk of the House. Immediately thereafter, the Clerk of the Senate shall read said bills by their titles, which shall be the second reading of said bills, whereupon the Clerk shall refer them to appropriate committees, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate ; and bills which have passed the Senate, and reported with amendments by the House of Representatives, shall be in a like manner referred.

79. The Clerk shall make all reports to the House of Representatives, unless otherwise ordered.

80. When the roll is being called registering a yea and nay vote, and the hour of adjournment strikes, the time for adjournment shall be extended until after said yea and nay vote has been completed and the announcement of the result made, except on a motion to adjourn or to extend the session, when, in either case, the hour shall be obeyed.

81. The regular standing committees shall have the floor from 11 A. M. until 12 M., unless this rule is suspended by a two-third vote.

The Speaker laid before the Senate a communication in writing from Hon. H. C. Lilly, Circuit Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District.

Said communication was taken up and read as follows, viz :

FRANKFORT, KY., January 10, 1890.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky :

In his last annual message His Excellency, Simon Bolivar Buckner, Governor of the Commonwealth, calls your attention to the Judicial District over which I have the honor to preside and my administration of the office of circuit judge in that district. I very cheerfully report to the General Assembly the facts in the case, and am only anxious that when the facts are known that the Legislative Department of the State Government will render such aid as lies within their power to enforce the decrees of my court and assist me in the administration of justice. That such assistance is needed the statement which follows will, I think, abundantly prove. While I do not, by any means, concede the right of the Executive to interfere in any way with the administration of justice by the courts, except within the limits of his constitutional prerogative, I desire, at the same time, to be understood as inviting a thorough examination of my official conduct. This communication is made to the General Assembly without respect to the invidious charges contained in the Governor's message. I recognize and respond to my constitutional obligations to render an account of my stewardship to the Legislative Branch of the Government, but I, with equal emphasis, resent the claim of the Executive to render a circuit judge amenable to his will. I do not desire to be understood, however, as entertaining against the Executive any personal feelings of animosity or ill-will. On the contrary, I think His Excellency is sincerely desirous of doing right, as far as he knows, but that his ideas of civil government are so distorted from a civil model by his military education and habits, and so thoroughly bureaucratic in principle, as to be utterly and absolutely inconsistent with the administration of civil government under the present Constitution of the Commonwealth. I say this as an index to the statement which follows, and as a candid expression of my attitude toward the Governor, irrespective of his cruel and unjust attack on my official integrity and honor. If I have failed in the discharge of my duty I ought to be punished as the law directs; if I have performed my duty, surely I have not deserved such reference as His Excellency is pleased to make to me in his message.

In his message Governor Buckner says: "Additional legislation is also needed to provide for the assignment of some other circuit judge where the regular judge, from any cause, is absent. This necessity will be apparent when the recent action of the Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District is considered.

"In a communication, dated November 13, 1889, the judge informed the Executive that unless a guard was sent to accompany him on the circuit he 'would not attempt to hold courts at Letcher, Knott or Breathitt.' As no information had reached the Executive office to show that any organization existed in opposition to the civil authorities in those counties, no troops were sent, and in some of those counties, as I am informed, courts have not been regularly held by the circuit judge since that time."

The counties composing the Nineteenth Judicial District are Estill, Powell, Lee, Clay, Perry, Letcher, Knott, Breathitt and Wolfe. These are all mountain counties, and, as a rule, only accessible on horseback, one hundred and fifty miles long and seventy miles wide. In the counties of Estill, Powell, Lee, Clay, Breathitt, and Wolfe I have never, since my election, failed to hold the regular terms of court for their full time. In the fall of 1888 I failed to hold the regular fall terms of the Letcher and Knott Circuit Courts, and in 1889 the regular fall terms of the Perry and Knott Circuit Courts. You will be better able to judge of the reasons for not holding said courts when the facts are stated.

The counties of Knott and Perry are absolutely dominated and terrorized by savage and lawless bands. All respect for justice and the peaceful and orderly administration of the law is not only set at defiance, but the most high-handed outrages are perpetrated in the presence of the court, and with the purpose and object of terrorizing and intimidating the officers of justice. At the peril of my life, frequently narrowly escaping death, I have held the courts in these counties. Before the fall terms for 1888 in these counties came on I had knowledge of feuds existing in both the counties of Knott and Perry of the most deadly and malignant character. Hostile armed bands in these two counties constantly menaced each other; deadly conflicts between the opposing factions were of almost daily occurrence. The circuit court drew together at the court-house the factions from all sections of the county. A collision, with necessarily fatal and demoralizing results, was inevitable. The better elements of each county, including the officers of the court, were helpless in the face of superior numbers of reckless and lawless men heavily armed. Under these circumstances I informed His Excellency, Governor Buckner, of the facts and asked for military aid. He sent one company of State troops to Perry, but refused to permit them to accompany me to Knott or Letcher. I held the court in Perry under the protection of the troops, but refused to hold the court in Knott and Letcher because my life was threatened by lawless and desperate men, and I was reliably informed that in case I attempted to hold either of these courts I would certainly be assassinated. I am now certain, from information since received, that such would, beyond all doubt, have been the result.

I am and always have been anxious to enforce the law and restore order in these counties, but from a very thorough knowledge of the entire situation I am convinced that unless the civil power of the courts is sustained and backed by a military escort sufficient to protect the court from violence and enforce its orders, judgments and decrees, no real progress will be made toward re-establishing peace and good order in these counties.

I do not wish to be understood as saying that this aid should be permanently furnished, or relied upon as a permanent means of executing the law, but that such aid should be furnished the circuit judge until, by its aid, the officers of the courts would be enabled to gain the ascendancy over the vicious and lawless and by the inherent force of virtue to master and dominate the lawless classes.

In the fall of 1889 I did not call upon the Executive for aid, for the reason that His Excellency had caused to be published in the daily papers a letter sent to me, in which he very clearly and pointedly refused in advance to furnish troops to aid the court.

The fighting and killings that occurred at Knott court in 1888, and then Perry in November, 1888, prove that my friends were correct in advising me to stay away from those courts.

During my administration of the office of circuit judge in the Nineteenth Judicial District I have extended terms, and called special terms whenever the necessities of the business required it; so that for each year I have held courts for more judicial days than were assigned to the circuit by law.

In conclusion, I desire to say that while I regret more than anyone else can the condition of affairs in the counties referred to, I am also conscious of a sincere and earnest effort to do my whole duty, and I submit this communication with the utmost confidence in the justice and fairness of the General Assembly in dealing with me and the questions presented.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
FRANKFORT, January 11, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate:

In response to your resolution, I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of the agreement or contract entered into between the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund and the parties having in charge the labor of the convicts of the Kentucky Penitentiary.

Yours respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER,

Chairman Board Sinking Fund Commissioners.

THIS ARTICLE OF AGREEMENT.

Witnesseth : That the Commonwealth of Kentucky has let and hired to the Mason & Foard Company the labor of the convicts who are now or may be in the Kentucky Penitentiary at Frankfort, and also the right to the free use of all shops, machinery, fixtures, etc., in and connected with the said penitentiary, for the period of four (4) years from the first day of April, 1889, for the consideration, and upon the terms, conditions and limitations, hereinafter set out, for the faithful observance and performance of which, said company as principal and the undersigned, H. Hoge and John King, as principal sureties, and John Echols as their surety, hereby bind themselves jointly and severally to said Commonwealth in such sum or sums, not exceeding one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000), as may be sufficient to indemnify the said Commonwealth against all costs and damages that may accrue from a breach of any stipulation herein contained, should any such occur.

It is agreed by said contractors, the Mason & Foard Company, and the said parties, sureties aforesaid :

1st. That for said labor said contractors shall pay into the Treasury of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, on the last day of each month, a sum equal to the monthly pay of all officers and guards of the penitentiary, then due, so that the said Commonwealth shall be kept acquit of all charge or expense or any such account during the continuation of this contract.

2d. That said contractors shall, at all times during the continuance of this lease, furnish sufficient and proper food, clothing, bedding, medicines and medical attendance to all convicts in said penitentiary, and in all respects treat them humanely, and provide for them as comfortably, both in sickness and in health, as may be consistent with good order and discipline, acquitting the Commonwealth of all charge on any such account.

3d. The said contractors shall faithfully conform to all rules and regulations which may be prescribed by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund respecting the labor, diet and clothing, and safe keeping of the convicts, and touching the discipline, sanitation, police and other matters relating to the convicts, officers and guards, such as said Commissioners are by law authorized to make, but the said contractors are not to be required to pay for the increased compensation or for additional guards, unless an increase of guards is deemed necessary by the Board of Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, and no increase is to be made, except by order of said Board. Upon the expiration of the term of any convict, or his or her pardon, the said contractor or lessee will furnish such convict a new suit of serviceable clothing and transportation (not transferrable), at the lowest rates, to the county from which such convict was sent to the penitentiary, and will pay the rewards and expenses, prescribed by law for the capture and return of any escaped convict.

4th. Said contractor or lessee shall, when required by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, furnish, free of charge to the Commonwealth, any number of unskilled convict laborers, not exceeding ten (10) at one time, that may be needed for work about the public buildings or grounds belonging to the Commonwealth at the seat of Government.

This contract is to be construed in harmony with the existing contract for the completion and leasing of the prison at Eddyville, and as soon as said Eddyville prison is sufficiently completed to do away with the necessity of working any of the convicts outside of the prison walls, all convicts shall be returned to one or the other of these prisons, as provided by law, but until said Eddyville prison is so far completed as to do away with such necessity, the said contractor and lessee is to have the right to continue to work convicts outside of the prison walls as provided for by the terms of its last preceding contract of lease, and to the extent and in the number authorized by existing laws.

6th. The said contractor and lessee agrees to waive all claims in law, equity or good conscience it may have to compensation or damages by reason of the burning of the work shops on January 15, 1887, and the consequent want of room and facilities for utilizing the prison labor under its former lease.

7th. Said contractor and lessee also agrees to pay all rents for water supply, except for fire plugs, and to save the State acquit of all expense on such account.

8th. The said contractor and lessee is to have, and is hereby given the right, at its option, to extend this contract of leasing for an additional term of four years (4) from and after the first day of April, 1893: Provided, It shall give the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners, or to the then prison management, notice of its intention to make such extension on or before the 31st day of December, 1892.

REMARKS.

It is proper to call attention to the fact that the dividends earned in and declared on any calendar year, do not, in many cases, correspond with the dividends paid in that same year, and this is the case with the years 1888 and 1889, as per present report. The reason is obvious, when the fact is stated that the dividends earned in the year 1888 are declared in April, July and October of that year, and January, 1889, hence the dividends paid in 1889 are part of the dividends of 1888 and part of the dividends of 1889, each year lapping over into the other. It will also be noticed that the ferry was a net loss to the company in 1889 instead of a profit, arising from the fact that a large part of its business was taken by the C. & O. R. R. bridge, thus reducing the receipts, and the further fact that the entire outfit, including the ferry-boat and the two wharf-boats were put in complete repair, necessitating an expense of $8,800 in round numbers.

(Signed.)

Mr. Lindsay, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to which was referred the proposed joint resolution introduced by Mr. Glenn, looking to an investigation of the official conduct of the Hon. W. L. Jackson, Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court, in relation to certain matters to which the attention of the General Assembly was called by the Governor's message, and the memorials of Judge Jackson and of the Hon. H. C. Lilly, Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District, submitted the following report, viz:

To the Senate:

Your Committee on the Judiciary, to whom were referred the proposed joint resolution of the Senator from McCracken, looking to an investigation of the official conduct of the Hon. Wm. L. Jackson, Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court, in relation to certain matters to which the attention of the General Assembly was called by the Governor's message, and the memorials of Judge Jackson and of the Hon. H. C. Lilly, Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District, submit the following:

The Governor, after discussing in his message the lawlessness prevalent in certain portions of the Commonwealth, and the failure of certain officers to enforce the laws, uses this language: "While the Judge of the Nineteenth Judicial District has failed to discharge the duties of his office, and has thus rendered himself amenable to legislative investigation, the Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court has repeatedly exceeded the limits of his authority by invading the domain, both of the legislative and executive branches of the State government." As tending to support these conclusions, there are cited in the message specific acts on the part of each of these judges to which we do not deem it necessary to call special attention. Waiving any expression of opinion as to whether the acts so detailed sufficiently support the conclusions stated in the message, and also as to the sufficiency of the defensive and explanatory statements contained in the two memorials, it seems clear, in case legislative investigation shall show reasonable grounds for the belief, that either of said officers has been knowingly and willfully guilty of the misconduct imputed to him. The House of Representatives may feel warranted in preferring against such officer articles of impeachment for misdemeanors in office. Should the House take such action against either of the said judges, it will become the duty of Senators sitting as members of the court of impeachment to inquire into the charges and defences, and determine judicially the question of the guilt or innocence of the accused. It is, therefore, of the first importance that Senators shall not, by or through premature investigation, disqualify themselves for the fair and impartial discharge of the duties that may be imposed upon them by the possible action of the House of Representatives. In this view your committee does not deem it advisable for the Senate at this time to participate in the proposed investigation. If the House of Representatives shall decline or fail to prefer articles of impeachment against said judges, or either of them, then to the extent it so fails, the Senate may, with propriety, take such action in regard to the "charges" and memorials as it may deem expedient and proper.

Your committee asks that for the time being they be discharged from the further consideration of the resolution to raise the proposed joint committee, as well as from the further consideration of said memorials and each of them.

Very respectfully,

JOHN K. HENDRICK, Chairman,
WILLIAM LINDSAY,
ROBT. J. BRECKINRIDGE,
D. W. WRIGHT,
D. H. SMITH,
JAS. H. MULLIGAN.

And the question being taken upon the adoption of said report, it was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Huff, from the Committee on Public Health, to whom was referred leave to bring in a bill, entitled :

An act providing for the appointment of female physicians in certain institutions in this Commonwealth,

Reported the same, with the expression of opinion that said bill ought to pass.

Which bill was read the first time and ordered to be read a second time.

The constitutional provision as to the second reading of said bill being dispensed with,

Mr. Wright proposed an amendment to said bill.

On motion of Mr. Peterman :

Ordered, That said bill and proposed amendment be printed, and recommitted to the Committee on Public Health.

On motion of Mr. Dickerson, the rules were suspended, and the Senate took up for consideration a resolution, which originated in the House of Representatives, entitled :

Resolution of respect to the life and memory of the Hon. Abner McClanahan, deceased, ex-Representative from Bracken county.

Said resolution reads as follows, viz :

WHEREAS, Since the last session of this Assembly, it has pleased Almighty God in the wise dispensation of His providence, to call from our midst the Hon. Abner McClanahan, ex-Representative from the county of Bracken; therefore, be it honorable citizen ; his friends an affable companion and friend, and his family an affectionate and devoted husband and father.

3. Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of this House, and a copy of them be engrossed and forwarded to the family of the deceased, and that, as an additional mark of our respect to his memory, this House do now adjourn.

The question was then taken on concurring in the adoption of said resolution, and it was decided in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. Dickerson, the Senate then adjourned.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1890.

The regular Speaker, Hon. James W. Bryan, being absent, Hon. Harry Glenn, Clerk, called the Senate to order, and announced that an election would be held to elect a Speaker, pro tem., of the Senate, and that nominations were in order for said office.

Whereupon Mr. English nominated Hon. D. H. Smith, of the Thirteenth District, as a suitable person to fill said office.

And no other nomination being made, and the vote being taken, Mr. Smith was unanimously elected Speaker, pro tem., of the Senate, and thereupon appeared and took the oath required by the Constitution and laws of the State of Kentucky, and thereupon took the Chair and called the Senate to order.

The reading of the Journal of yesterday was dispensed with.

An act to incorporate the Hart County Deposit Bank and Trust Company.

8. An act to authorize the Secretary of State to furnish the county of Leslie with the Reports of the Court of Appeals and Acts of the General Assembly.

9. An act to amend the charter of the town of Olive Hill, in Carter county, changing boundary lines.

10. An act to give Knott county her share in the surplus school bonds of Floyd, Breathitt, Perry and Letcher counties.

11. An act to amend the charter of the Louisville and Jeffersonville Bridge Company.

12. An act for the benefit of Miss Lula Simpkins.

Which bills and resolutions were severally read the first time and ordered to be read a second time.

The constitutional provision as to the second reading of said bills and resolutions being dispensed with,

The 3d, the last-named resolution, was taken up, twice read and concurred in,

And the others were referred—the 1st to the Committee on Privileges and Elections ; the 2d to the Committee on Penitentiary and House of Reform ; the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 10th to the Committee on Education ; the 8th to the Committee on General Statutes ; the 9th to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances ; the 11th to the Committee on Railroads ; and the 12th, the last-named bill, was ordered to be read a third time.

The constitutional provision as to the third reading of said bill being dispensed with,

Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they had passed a bill, which originated in that body, entitled :

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

Your attention is respectfully invited to a consideration of the doubtful interpretation of section 9, article 6, of chapter 33, of the General Statutes, on the subject of the resignation of officers. There appears to be doubt as to whether the tender of a resignation is in fact a completion of the act, or whether an acceptance of the resignation is necessary to relieve the incumbent from the discharge of the duties of the office.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
FRANKFORT, Jan. 17, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

I herewith transmit for your information the reports of the commissioners appointed under authority of "An act for the benefit of the Lunatic Asylums of the Commonwealth," approved May 18, 1886, and charged with the duty of constructing the addition therein authorized to the Central Asylum. Having completed the building, they ask to be discharged, after proper investigation by your committees.

The reports are transmitted to the Senate.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMISSIONERS FOR CENTRAL LUNATIC ASYLUM, APPOINTED UNDER CHAPTER 1273, ACTS 1886.

JANUARY 17, 1890.

To His Excellency, Gov. SIMON B. BUCKNER :

Your commissioners beg leave to report that we have completed the new building for the colored insane at the Central Asylum, and on October 15th turned over the same to the Superintendent, Dr. W. J. Byrne, for occupancy, at a total cost of about $30,000, as will be seen from accompanying statement, marked schedule A. The house is well built, and admirably adapted to the purpose designed, but, in our judgment, not as sightly or as well located as it should have been. As referred to in our last report, your commissioners were enjoined by president of the asylum board, through the chancery court, from erecting the building on the site selected by the Superintendent, Dr. Pusey, and ourselves. The court held that the local board had the right to locate the building, and not the Superintendent or your special commissions. As soon as said decision was rendered, your commissioners instructed the architect to go to work and erect the building at the place selected. In the excavation for the foundation, the site being on the side of a hill, and having to go a considerable depth at our end to get a level, we encountered quite a bold stream of water, and soon after a severe rain set in, which, together, caused the lower wall to give way. The fallen wall, considerable more excavation, and sewer-pipes to convey off the spring water, all taken together, forced us to an expenditure of about $1,500 more than the original contracts called for, and fully $1,000 more than the same building would have cost on the site first selected. There is still due Dr. Byrne, the Superintendent, about $740, for balance paid out for heating apparatus, bath-tubs, etc., etc., in having undertaken the steam-heating contract, besides for work done by the asylum employes to the amount of $800. To offset this the asylum board used, for other purposes, 170,000 brick that cost us $870.40, besides planks that cost us $175, all used before the present Superintendent was installed, however. There is a suit now pending against us, brought by Frank Akers, for $1,076.20, for balance due on contract for burning brick, with whom we contracted to burn and deliver on the ground at the building 1,050,000 brick at $5.12½ per thousand. We paid him $4,523 on his account, reserving twenty per cent., as the law required, to insure the fulfillment of contract and delivery of the brick, but just as he was ready to deliver the brick we were stopped by the court from building at that place. As soon as we were again ready to build, we notified him to deliver the brick, which he refused to do, having already filed suit against us. It cost us $652.40 to deliver the brick. We think we owe but very little, if any, but the lower court held that his failure to deliver was no fault of his, and hence he should receive full pay. We think in any case the amount it cost us to deliver the brick, at least what it should have cost him, should be deducted from the account. Should this suit go in favor of Akers, the Legislature should direct its payment by the Auditor, we would suggest.

We attach hereto the bill of the architects, Messrs. Curtin & Campbell, showing a balance due them of $510, which, we think, should be allowed by the Legislature, as there is not sufficient funds left in our hands to pay it. They have done faithful and efficient work. The law under which we were appointed required us, in our section, to employ an architect, but did not provide specifically for his pay, and in another section appropriated $42,000 for the two buildings at the Central Asylum, to be paid out by us.

Your commissioners have expended, of $42,000 appropriated, $41,614.04, leaving a balance unexpended of $386.96 still to our credit with the Auditor. The vouchers, receipts and contracts have all been placed in his hands, with whose books our accounts all agree.

Your commissioners would most respectfully beg to be discharged of further service, as the buildings are all completed, and that the Auditor be instructed to pay architects, Curtin & Campbell, balance of $510, and that he attend to the suit of Akers now pending, and pay off the judgment, if any, when rendered, thereby relieving the State of further expense to the commissioners.

Respectfully,

S. C. LONG,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
FRANKFORT, January 28, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

It is my pleasing duty to transmit to you a communication from Miss Mary Stewart Bunch, embodying a quotation from the last will and testament of Mrs. Bunch, of Henderson, Kentucky, presenting to the State of Kentucky the portrait of her first husband, Major Phillip N. Barbour, of the United States Army. Major Barbour was a native of Kentucky, a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, an officer of the 3d regiment of U. S. Infantry, a gentleman of refinement and varied accomplishments, a man of patriotic and chivalrous impulses, with a heart "open as day to melting charity," and a fearless soldier, who died at the head of his regiment in the terrible conflict at Monterey, during the war with Mexico. The portrait now hangs in the Library at the State Capitol. I doubt not the General Assembly will take appropriate action in acknowledging this bequest, and in perpetuating the memory of one of the most gallant of her sons, whose chivalrous actions have reflected honor upon the Commonwealth.

Very respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

HENDERSON, KY., Nov. 16th, 1889.

Governor BUCKNER :

SIR: The picture of Major Phillip N. Barbour is to be shipped to-day by express to Capt. E. Porter Thompson, Librarian, Frankfort, Kentucky, as you stated in your letter. In mother's will she expresses herself thus: "The portrait of Major Barbour, I present to the State of Kentucky, to adorn the walls of the Capitol." If you will be so kind as to present the gift to the General Assembly with her request, I will be greatly obliged. Please let me hear if it arrived safely.

Respectfully,

MARY STEWART BUNCH.

On motion of Mr. Mr. Lindsay—

Ordered, That said communication and accompanying letter be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

An act to amend an act, entitled “An act to regulate the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in this Commonwealth.”

Reported the same, with the expression of opinion that said bill ought to pass.

Which bill was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

The constitutional provision as to the second reading of said bill being dispensed with,

Said bill was read a second time as follows, viz :

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That an act, entitled “An act to regulate the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in this Commonwealth,” approved May 26, 1874, be amended as follows: That it shall be the duty of the judge of the county court in each county of this Commonwealth, upon a written petition, signed by at least twenty of the legal voters in any county or civil district, town or city in his county, to make an order on his order book on the first day of the next regular term of his court, after he receives said petition, directing the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election, to open a poll in said county, district, town or city, on the day designated in said petition, it not being a day for any State or county election, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters in said county, district, town or city, upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold therein.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the county court clerk to give to the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it shall be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, a certified copy of the order of the judge of the county court, as it appears on his order book, within ten days after said order is made.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, to have the order of the judge of the county court published in some weekly or daily paper, published in the county, for at least twenty days before the election; and, also, to advertise the same by printed hand-bills, posted at ten conspicuous places in said county, district, town or city, for the same length of time, and if there is no daily or weekly newspaper published in the county, then printed hand-bills, posted as before provided for, shall be sufficient notice. The sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it shall be to hold the election mentioned in section 1, shall have the advertisement and notices herein provided for, posted as above provided for, within ten days after he receives the order of the county judge, and twenty days before the election.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, to open a poll, and the election officers shall propound to each voter who may vote, the question: "Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in this county, district, town or city?" and his vote shall be entered for or against it, as he directs. The poll shall be returned, examined and compared by the same officers as the other polls in State or county election.

§ 5. If it shall be found that a majority of the legal votes cast at the election before provided for were given against the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, in the county, district, town or city, it shall be the duty of the examining board to certify that fact, which certificate shall be delivered to the clerk of the county court, and by him safely kept until the next regular term of the county court, at which term the judge thereof shall have the same spread on the order book of his court, and said entry of the certificate in the order book, or a certified copy thereof, shall be prima facie evidence in all proceedings under this act.

§ 6. After the entry of the certificate of the examining board, as above provided for, in the order book of the county court, it shall be unlawful for any person to sell any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in said county, district, town or city, to any person, except as hereinafter provided for, and any person who sells such liquors in said county, district, town or city shall, upon conviction, be fined the sum of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, for each offense.

§ 7. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any manufacturer or wholesale dealer who, in the usual course of trade, sells by the wholesale, and in quantities not less than ten gallons at any one time, nor to druggists who sell for sacramental purposes, or for medicinal purposes, on a prescription made and signed by a regular resident practicing physician: Provided, That said druggist has first complied with the provisions set forth in section 10 of this act, but no physician shall make or sign any such prescription, except the person for whom it is made is actually sick, and such liquor is absolutely required as a medicine, and any physician who makes or signs any prescription for such liquors, except as provided in this act, shall be guilty of a violation of this act, and, on conviction, be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars for such offense.

§ 8. The election herein provided for shall not be held oftener than every three years, and the officers to conduct an election held under this act shall be appointed by the county court, and divided as near as may be, at each voting place, between the friends of those for and those against the sale of the liquors aforesaid, and said officers shall be governed by the laws of the Commonwealth regulating the mode and manner of holding and conducting election for Governor and other officers.

§ 9. The county judge shall not make the order for the election until the persons signing the petition have deposited with him, in money, an amount sufficient to pay for printing or posting advertisements as provided for, and the fees of the clerk for making entries on the order book, and other legal fees.

§ 10. Before any druggist shall be allowed to sell any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors upon the prescription of a regular resident practicing physician, as provided for in section 7, he shall execute a bond to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in the county court of the county where he carries on his business, in the sum of $2,000, with good security, residing in said county, conditioned that the druggist will comply with the provisions of this act, and any druggist who shall sell such spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, without first having executed said bond, or without having received the prescription from such physician, shall be fined for each offense not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

§ 11. It shall be the duty of every druggist who sells the liquors aforesaid under this act, to keep each prescription for said liquors, or either of them, in a book separate, and the name of the person for whom said prescription was made, and apart from all other prescriptions, and that he shall keep said book in a public place in his store, open for public inspection, and subject to the call of the grand jury or court having jurisdiction to try any offense under this act; and upon the failure of said druggist to keep such book as aforesaid, he shall be fined for each offense in a sum not less than one hundred nor more than five hundred dollars; and any person who shall remove, mutilate, deface or otherwise injure any prescription filed in said book, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars for each offense.

§ 12. If it shall be found that a majority of the legal votes cast at said election are in favor of the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in the county, then, in that event, it shall not be lawful to sell any such liquors in any of the districts of said county in which the law known as the local option law has hitherto been voted, and is at the time of this election in force, or prohibited by a special act of the Legislature; but such law shall remain and be in full force in said districts just as if no vote under this act had been voted, unless a majority of the legal voters of that particular town, city or district vote for the sale of said liquors.

§ 13. If a majority of the votes cast be against the sale of said liquors in any county, or in any district, town or city in any county, the judge of the county court of said county shall, by public proclamation, published either in the county paper or by printed hand-bills, posted at five or more public places in said county, district, town or city, announce that the said sale is prohibited in said county, district or city by name, and when this act shall, or will, go into effect in said county, district, town or city.

§ 14. The circuit and criminal courts of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction over offenses committed against the provisions of this act, and the circuit and criminal judges of this Commonwealth shall give this act in charge to the grand juries of their respective courts at each term of the court.

§ 15. If a majority of the legal votes cast in any county be for the sale of said liquors, and a majority of the legal votes of said district, town or city, in said county, be against the sale of said liquors, then it shall be the duty of the examining board to certify that fact, as in section 5 of this act, and the provisions of this act shall be in force in such districts, town or city, giving such majority against the sale of said liquors.

§ 16. Nothing in this act shall be construed to interfere with the privilege of any person who is selling liquors under a license properly granted, until the expiration of such license.

§ 17. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

The Senate, according to order, took up for consideration, a joint resolution, which originated in the House of Representatives, entitled

A resolution to raise a joint committee to investigate and report whether the General Assembly has power to apportion Representatives, and to divide the State into Senatorial districts.

Said resolution reads as follows, viz :

WHEREAS, It is provided by section 6, article 2, of the Constitution, that: "In the year 1850, and again in 1857, and every eighth year thereafter, an enumeration of all the qualified voters of the State shall be made," in order to the apportionment of Representatives in the General Assembly, and also provides, that "the number of Representatives shall, at the several sessions of the General Assembly next after the making of the enumeration, be apportioned among the ten several election districts, according to the number of qualified voters in each," and sections 14 and 15 of the same article provides that, "at every apportionment of Representatives, the State shall be laid off into thirty-eight Senatorial districts," and "one Senator for each district shall be elected; and, whereas, the enumeration of the qualified voters should, under the Constitutional provision aforesaid, have been made in the year 1889, to enable this General Assembly to perform its constitutional duty of apportioning the Representatives and dividing the State into Senatorial districts; and, whereas, an act, approved January 20, 1888, providing for taking the sense of the good people of the Commonwealth as to the expediency of calling a Constitutional Convention, by its third section, provided a mode for the enumeration of the citizens of the Commonwealth qualified to vote for Representatives, and declared that, "In the year 1889 no other officer shall be authorized to make any list or return of the qualified voters of this Commonwealth, nor shall any return thereof, except the registration books and certificates provided for by this act, be made, and all laws requiring lists or returns of such qualified voters are hereby repealed, so far as the year 1889 is embraced therein;" and, whereas, obedience to the said provision prevented the enumeration required by the said section 6, of article 2, of the Constitution, and will operate to defeat and nullify the provisions of said article requiring this General Assembly to apportion the Representatives and divide the State into Senatorial districts in the event the enumeration or registration of qualified voters, made pursuant to the provisions of the act of January 20, 1888, for a wholly different purpose, can not be deemed and treated as the enumeration contemplated by the said second article of the Constitution; and, whereas, doubts exist whether an apportionment of Representatives, and re-adjustment of Senatorial districts can be constitutionally based upon such enumeration or registration; therefore,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, 1. That a joint committee of eight members, consisting of three Senators, to be appointed by the Speaker of the Senate, and five Representatives, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, be, and such committee is hereby, appointed, to examine into and consider the aforesaid questions, and to report in writing to the two Houses, whether obedience to the provisions of the said act of January 20, 1888, prohibiting the assessing officers from enumerating the qualified voters in the year 1889, has disabled this General Assembly from discharging the duty imposed upon it by the provisions of said second article of the Constitution in regard to the apportionment of Representatives and the division of the State into Senatorial districts; and, if not so disabled, whether this General Assembly can constitutionally accept, and whether it ought to accept, the enumeration made pursuant to the provisions of the third section of the act of January 20, 1888, as the true number of qualified voters in the State, and proceed to apportion Representatives and to divide the State into Senatorial districts upon the basis of that enumeration or registration and upon the assumption of its substantial accuracy as to the whole number of qualified voters in the State and their distribution among the ten Representative districts and the several counties of the Commonwealth.

2. This resolution shall be in force from its adoption.

The Senate, according to order, took up for consideration a bill, entitled

An act to amend an act, entitled "An act to regulate the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors in this Commonwealth."

Said bill reads as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That an act, entitled "An act to regulate the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors in this Commonwealth," approved May 26, 1874, be amended as follows: That it shall be the duty of the judge of the county court in each county of this Commonwealth, upon a written petition, signed by at least twenty of the legal voters in any county or civil district, town or city in his county, to make an order on his order-book, on the first day of the next regular term of his court after he receives said petition, directing the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election, to open a poll in said county, district, town or city, on the day designated in said petition, it not being a day for any State or county election, for the purpose of taking the sense of the legal voters in said county, district, town or city, upon the proposition whether or not spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors shall be sold therein.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the county court clerk to give to the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it shall be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, a certified copy of the order of the judge of the county court, as it appears on his order-book, within ten days after said order is made.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, to have the order of the judge of the county court published in some weekly or daily paper published in the county, for at least twenty days before the election; and also to advertise the same by printed hand-bills, posted at ten conspicuous places in said county, district, town or city, for the same length of time; and if there is no daily or weekly news paper published in the county, then printed hand-bills, posted as before provided for, shall be sufficient notice. The sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it shall be to hold the election mentioned in section 1, shall have the advertisement and notices herein provided for, posted as above provided for, within ten days after he receives the order of the county judge, and twenty days before the election.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the sheriff, or other officer, whose duty it may be to hold the election mentioned in section 1 of this act, to open a poll, and the election officers shall propound to each voter, who may vote, the question, "Are you in favor of the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors in this county, district, town or city?" And his vote shall be entered for or against it, as he directs. The poll shall be returned, examined and compared by the same officers as the other polls in State or county election.

§ 5. If it shall be found that a majority of the legal votes cast at the election before provided for were given against the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors in the county, district, town or city, it shall be the duty of the examining board to certify that fact, which certificate shall be delivered to the clerk of the county court, and by him safely kept until the next regular term of the county court, at which term the judge thereof shall have the same spread on the order-book of his court; and said entry of the certificate in the order-book, or a certified copy thereof, shall be prima facie evidence in all proceedings under this act.

§ 6. After the entry of the certificate of the examining board, as above provided for, in the order-book of the county court, it shall be unlawful for any person to sell any spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors in said county, district, town or city to any person, except as hereinafter provided for; and any person who sells any such liquors in said county, district, town or city shall, upon conviction, be fined the sum of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

§ 7. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any manufacturer or wholesale dealer who, in the usual course of trade, sells by the wholesale, and in quantities not less than ten gallons at any one time; nor to druggists who sell for sacramental purposes, or for medicinal purposes, on a prescription made and signed by a regular resident practicing physician: Provided, That said druggist has first complied with the provisions set forth in section 10 of this act; but no physician shall make or sign any such prescription, except the person for whom it is made is actually sick, and such liquor is absolutely required as a medicine; and any physician who makes or signs any prescription for such liquors, except as provided in this act, shall be guilty of a violation of this act, and, on conviction, be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars for such offense.

§ 8. The election herein provided for shall not be held oftener than every three years, and the officers to conduct an election held under this act shall be appointed by the county court, and divided, as near as may be, at each voting place, between the friends of those for and those against the sale of the liquors aforesaid, and said officers shall be governed by the laws of the Commonwealth regulating the mode and manner of holding and conducting election for Governor and other officers.

§ 9. The county judge shall not make the order for the election until the persons signing the petition have deposited with him, in money, an amount sufficient to pay for printing or posting advertisements as provided for, and the fees of the clerk for making entries on the order-book, and other legal fees,

§ 10. Before any druggist shall be allowed to sell any spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors upon the prescription of a regular resident practicing physician, as provided for in section 7, he shall execute a bond to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, in the county court of the county where he carries on his business, in the sum of $2,000, with good security, residing in said county, conditioned that the druggist will comply with the provisions of this act; and any druggist who shall sell such spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, without first having executed said bond, or without having received the prescription from such physician, shall be fined for each offense not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

§ 11. It shall be the duty of every druggist, who sells the liquors aforesaid under this act, to keep each prescription for said liquors, or either of them, in a book separate, and the name of the person for whom said prescription was made, and apart from all other prescriptions, and that he shall keep said book in a public place in his store, open for public inspection, and subject to the call of the grand jury or court having jurisdiction to try any offense under this act; and, upon the failure of said druggist to keep such book as aforesaid, he shall be fined for each offense in a sum not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars; and any person, who shall remove, mutilate, deface, or otherwise injure any prescription filed in said book, shall be fined in any sum not less than one hundred dollars for each offense.

§ 12. If it shall be found that a majority of the legal votes cast at said election are in favor of the sale of spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors in the county, then, in that event, it shall not be lawful to sell any such liquors in any of the districts of said county in which the law known as the Local Option Law has hitherto been voted, and is, at the time of this election, in force or prohibited by a special act of the Legislature; but such law shall remain and be in full force in said districts just as if no vote under this act had been voted, unless a majority of the legal voters of that particular town, city or district, vote for the sale of said liquors.

§ 13. If a majority of the votes cast be against the sale of said liquors in any county, or in any district, town or city in any county, the judge of the county court of said county shall, by public proclamation, publish either in the county paper or by printed hand-bills, posted at five or more public places in said county, district, town or city, announce that the said sale is prohibited in said county, district, town or city, by name, and when this act shall or will go into effect in said county, district, town or city.

§ 14. The circuit and criminal courts of this Commonwealth shall have jurisdiction over offenses committed against the provisions of this act, and the circuit and criminal judges of this Commonwealth shall give this act in charge to the grand juries of their respective courts at each term of the court.

§ 15. If a majority of the legal votes cast in any county be for the sale of said liquors, and a majority of the legal votes of any district, town or city in said county be against the sale of said liquors, then it shall be the duty of the examining board to certify that fact, as in section 5 of this act, and the provisions of this act shall be in force in such districts, town or city, giving such majority against the sale of said liquors.

§ 16. Nothing in this act shall be construed to interfere with the privilege of any person who is selling liquors under a license properly granted until the expiration of such license.

§ 17. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Said message was taken up and read as follows :

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
FRANKFORT, February 13, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

I desire to invite your attention to the character of the bank legislation which is now being enacted, and which, if not remedied, is likely to result in financial disaster. I do this the more readily, because it is believed that the suggestions are in harmony with your own purposes to remedy the threatened evils. Judging from the features of the numerous bank charters that have reached the Executive Office, it may be inferred that every set of incorporators seeks to obtain every privilege that is attainable, and to be subject to the smallest amount of responsibility. As a result of these attempts, there is an entire absence of uniformity in the requirements of these charters, and a corresponding inadequacy of protection to depositors.

Amongst the bills now before the Executive for consideration, is one which requires a payment of twenty-five per cent. of the capital before beginning business ; two others, on an authorized capital of $500,000, each are required to pay only $10,000 ; and another, which is an amendment to an existing charter, and which converts a different institution into a bank, without the payment of any portion of the stock, and with the privilege of general speculation in real estate. In none of these charters is there any requirement to pay any further installment on the capital stock. In some charters private property can not be levied upon, even to make good the unpaid stock.

It will be readily seen that in banking institutions, organized on such a basis, there is no security for a depositor. The deposits become, in fact, almost the sole banking capital. Inexperienced bankers, seeking to make immense profits on their small investments, are tempted to lend the money of the depositors on inadequate security. When the spirit of speculation results in commercial disaster, the money which has been loaned can not be recovered, the deposits are lost, and, as the bank has not been required to pay up its capital stock, the depositor is entirely without remedy. In such an event he will be apt to visit censure upon his agents, who, while encouraging him by their legislation to deposit his money in these institutions, have not thrown around them such guards as would give reasonable protection to the interests of the depositor.

As the Senate is maturing a bill to correct the faults of existing legislation on this subject, and as the House of Representatives has adopted a resolution tending in the same direction, the Executive proposes to act in harmony with the General Assembly by withholding his approval from the class of legislation alluded to while the remedial legislation is being perfected.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

On motion of Mr. Dickerson—

Ordered, That said message be referred to the Committee on Banks and Insurance.

Mr. Goebel, from the Committee on Courts of Justice, to whom was referred a bill, which originated in the House of Representatives, entitled may be prosecuted to the Superior Court and Court of Appeals from the judgments and [final] orders of the court established by this act, in like manner and under like restrictions as appeals from the circuit courts are taken and prosecuted.

Reported the same without amendment.

§ 7. The Commonwealth's Attorney for the Marion Circuit Court shall attend each term of said Marion Criminal Court and represent the Commonwealth, and discharge all the duties, and be entitled to the same compensation as now provided by law in the circuit courts.

§ 8. Resolution providing for an investigation of the Louisville Gas Company.

Said resolution reads as follows, viz :

WHEREAS, Through the public prints and in general comment, statements have been made to the effect that the Louisville Gas Company, a corporation chartered by the General Assembly of Kentucky, is openly, seriously and flagrantly violating many provisions of its charter; and, whereas, said provisions were embodied in the charter of the Louisville Gas Company, for the protection of the citizens of Louisville; and, whereas, the said Louisville Gas Company, in so openly, seriously and flagrantly violating such provisions, has forfeited its charter; and, whereas, it has been commonly rumored that the Louisville Gas Company has not kept faith with the city of Louisville in the quality of light furnished, or with its patrons in the price charged for fuel and other gas; and, whereas, it is a matter of public notoriety that the said Gas Company has attempted to interfere with the election of local and State officers by the illegal use of money; therefore,

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That a committee of five be appointed by the Senate, to act in conjunction with a like committee appointed by the Speaker of the House, to investigate the affairs of the Louisville Gas Company; to summon witnesses and swear the same; examine its books, and be invested with full power to carry out the spirit of these resolutions, and report the result of such investigation to this body.

The Senator from Mason, Mr. Poyntz, rising to speak on the question of concurring in the foregoing amendment of the House of Representatives to the resolution aforesaid, made the following statement, to-wit :

"That in drafting the said resolution, it was his purpose and intention to so draft it as to require the appointment of the joint committee proposed to be raised by it to be made by the respective Speakers of the two Houses, and that the language of said resolution providing for the committee on the part of the Senate to be appointed by the Senate, was a pure inadvertence, and an unintentional mistake made by him in drafting the same. That he intended no discourtesy or disrespect whatever to the presiding officer of the Senate in so drafting said resolution, and it was a simple oversight in having said resolution to read so as to provide for the raising of the Senate Committee by the Senate, instead of by the presiding officer of the Senate."

And thereupon the Senator from Mason, Mr. Poyntz, requested and moved to have said explanation incorporated in and made a part of the Journal of the Senate on the consideration of said resolution.

Which was granted, and is now done.

The Constitutional provision as to the second reading of said bill being dispensed with,

Mr. Peterman moved to amend said bill by striking out the words "gigs," immediately after the word "drag," in the fourth line of section 1.

And the question being taken on the adoption of said amendment, and a quorum of the Senate not voting thereon, said bill fell into the orders of the day.

Mr. Stewart, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, to whom was recommitted a bill, which originated in the Senate, entitled

An act to protect the poll-books, ballot-boxes and election officers of all county, State and national elections held in this Commonwealth,

Reported the same with an amendment as a substitute therefor.

Said bill reads as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That it shall be the duty of the county judges in this Commonwealth, before each county, State and national election, to provide for, and secure in each voting precinct in their respective counties, a suitable room or other inclosure in which to hold such election, the same to be so arranged that no one, except those hereinafter named, can come nearer than thirty feet of the poll-books; or if such room can not be secured, or if, with the addition of railing or guarding, such room can not be secured at reasonable cost, then he shall cause to be erected an inclosure of railing or guarding, with only one entrance, at each voting place, as will leave a space of thirty feet between the center or the place the poll-books are to be kept and such railing or guarding.

§ 2 No one shall be permitted to go inside of said inclosure from the time the polls are opened till they are closed, the votes counted and certified, except the officers of election; one entrance guard, appointed by them; one agent or representative of each candidate to be voted for at such election, and not more than three voters at any one time; and no voter shall remain on the inside of said inclosure longer than five minutes, unless a question arises as to his right to vote, in which case, if desired by the officers, he shall remain until such question is decided, and, if deemed necessary, the officers may call in witnesses upon the point in question; such witnesses shall retire from the inclosure immediately after their testimony is given.

§ 3. An agent or representative of each candidate shall be authorized to enter and remain within the inclosure: Provided,

That the candidate or candidates to be voted for, or the county chairman of the political party to which the candidate or candidates belong, shall make in writing a request therefor to the election officers: And, provided, That the person so designated is a reputable citizen of good standing in the county.

§ 4. Any officer of the election, or agent of any candidate, shall have the right to challenge any person offering to vote, but it shall be unlawful for any one on the inside of the inclosure to engage in electioneering, or to solicit the vote of any elector for any person or measure, or suggest how any elector should or should not vote, but the officers of the election may give any information necessary to enable the elector to intelligently cast his vote or deposit his ballot.

§ 5. It shall be unlawful for any person to have or drink any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors on the inside of said inclosure, or for any person, not herein authorized, to enter such inclosure from the time the polls are opened until they are closed. Any person so offending shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

§ 6. It shall be unlawful for any person, on the inside the inclosure, to engage in electioneering, or to solicit the vote of any elector, or suggest that he vote for or against a certain person or measure; or for the election officers or other person to take from such inclosure the poll-books or ballot-box, from the time the polls are opened until they are closed, the vote counted and certified, or for any person at any time, without permission of the county judge, to tear down or injure such inclosure, or to injure or remove any material thereof. Any person violating this section of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon indictment and conviction therefor, shall be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than ten nor more than thirty days, or both so fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the jury or court trying the case.

§ 7. All expenses for preparing the rooms or inclosures herein provided for shall be allowed and paid out of the county levy as other claims against the county are allowed and paid. The entrance guard herein provided for shall be allowed one dollar for his day's services, to be allowed and paid as other county claims are allowed and paid.

§ 8. This act shall take effect from its passage.

The amendment offered by the committee as a substitute for said bill reads as follows, viz:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That it shall be the duty of the several county judges of this Commonwealth, before each county, State and national election, to provide for, and secure in each voting precinct in their respective counties, a suitable room or other

inclosure in which to hold such election, the same to be so arranged that no one, except those hereinafter named, can come nearer than thirty feet of the poll-books; or if such room can not be secured at reasonable cost, or if, by the addition of railing or guarding, such room can not be secured at reasonable cost, then he shall cause to be erected such an inclosure of railing or guarding, with one entrance, at each voting place, as will leave a space of not less than thirty feet between the center or the place the poll-books are to be kept and such railing or guarding. But the cost of any such room or inclosure shall not exceed five dollars at any one voting place, unless the same or the material thereof can be used without further cost at future elections.

§ 2. No one shall be permitted to go inside of said inclosure from the time the polls are opened until they are closed, the vote counted and certified, except the officers of election, one entrance guard, appointed by them; an agent or representative of each candidate to be voted for at such election, and not more than three voters at any one time; and no voter shall remain on the inside of said inclosure longer than five minutes, unless a question arises as to his right to vote, in which case, if desired by the officers, he shall remain until such question is decided, and, if deemed necessary, the officers may call in witnesses, as now provided by law, and examine them upon the point in question; such witnesses shall retire from the inclosure immediately after their testimony is given.

§ 3. An agent or representative of each candidate to be voted for at such election shall be authorized to enter and remain within the inclosure: Provided, That the candidate or candidates to be voted for, or the county chairman of the political party to which such candidate or candidates belong, shall make a request therefor in writing to the election officers: And, provided, That the person so designated is a reputable citizen of good standing in the county.

§ 4. The officers of election shall give any desired information necessary to enable the elector to intelligently cast his vote or deposit his ballot, and any officer of the election, or agent of any candidate, shall have the right to challenge any person offering to vote; but it shall be unlawful for any officer, agent, or other person, while on the inside of the inclosure, to engage in electioneering, or to solicit the vote of any elector for or against any person, party, or measure, or to suggest that he vote for or against any person, party, or measure, or to make any demonstrations whatever for or against any person, party or measure, or to act partial towards or against any person, party, or measure, or to walk backwards and forwards between the polls and those wishing to vote; or for the election officers or other person to take from such inclosure the poll-books or ballot-box from the time the polls are opened until they are closed, the vote counted and certified; or for any officer or agent to give any information to any one on the outside of the inclosure as to how any one cast his vote until the polls are closed and the vote certified; or for any person at any time, without permission of the county judge, to tear down or injure such inclosure, or to injure, deface or remove any material thereof. Any person violating any of the provisions of this section of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon indictment and conviction therefor, shall be fined not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or imprisoned not less than twenty-five nor more than one hundred days, or both so fined and imprisoned, in the discretion of the jury or court trying the case.

§ 5. It shall be unlawful for any person to have or drink any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors on the inside of said inclosure, or for any person not herein authorized, to enter, or to attempt by force to enter such inclosure, from the time the polls are opened until they are closed, the vote counted and certified. Any person so offending shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of officers of elections and entrance guards herein provided for, to strictly observe and enforce those provisions of this act relating to the duties of persons on the inside of the inclosure, and to prevent persons not herein authorized from entering the inclosure. Any officer or entrance guard, who fails or refuses to observe and enforce the same, shall be subject to the same fines and penalties as prescribed in the fourth section of this act.

§ 7. The county judge of each county shall have at least three copies of this act posted, in printed form, within and around the inclosure herein provided for, at each voting place in their respective counties.

§ 8. All expenses for preparing the rooms or inclosures, or for printing and posting copies of this act, as herein provided, shall be allowed and paid by the county levy court, as other claims against the county are allowed and paid. The entrance guard, whose duty it shall be to guard the entrance to the inclosure, and aid the election officers to carry into effect the provisions of this act, shall be paid the same per diem as the sheriff is allowed, to be paid by the county levy court as other claims are allowed and paid.

The Speaker laid before the Senate the following communication from James K. Patterson, President of the A. and M. College, viz :

LEXINGTON, KY., February 22, 1890.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky :

GENTLEMEN—I have heard with surprise and regret that an opinion has been industriously disseminated among the members of your honorable body that the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky evades and avoids, and, through its friends in the General Assembly, seeks to evade and avoid any investigation of its management and any disclosure of its income and expenditures. It is alleged that its funds are wastefully and recklessly expended on farms and buildings, and that exceptional advantages, other than those incident to location, accrue to the city and county in which it is established. I beg to say that these allegations are all without foundation in fact; that they are calculated to deceive and mislead those who have no opportunity to test their truth; to disparage and discredit the college in the estimation of the general public, and to impair its usefulness to the people of this Commonwealth. I, therefore, respectfully request that this General Assembly take such steps as may be necessary to place before its members and the public at large authentic and trustworthy information in regard to the organization and administration of the college, and the efficiency and integrity of its management. I beg, further, to assure the General Assembly that neither the trustees of the college who are responsible for its organization, nor the faculty to whom are committed the details of its management fear or evade investigation, let him gainsay who will.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

JAMES K. PATTERSON.

Ordered, That said communication be referred to the Committee on Agriculture and Manufactures.

The Speaker also laid before the Senate the following communication from James K. Patterson, President of the A. and M. College, viz :

LEXINGTON, KY., February 14, 1890.

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky :

GENTLEMEN—I am authorized by the executive committee of the board of trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky to extend to your honorable body a cordial invitation to visit, at such time as may best suit your convenience, the college owned, controlled and maintained by the Commonwealth for the education of her children. The governing board believe this to be, in many respects, the most important interest under the control of the Legislature. They are, therefore, extremely desirous that the members of the General Assembly should become acquainted by personal observation with the work of the college. They desire you to know what it is and what it may become.

In extending this invitation, the authorities of the college beg to assure your honorable body that they have no ulterior purpose, local or municipal, to serve, nor can they offer any material inducement beyond a homely and substantial repast in the dining-hall of the college home when your work of inspection is ended, to which, I need scarcely add, all will be made heartily welcome. The executive committee hope that you will make it convenient to spend the greater part of one day, at least the entire part thereof, with us, in order to witness the class-room and other exercises connected with the institution. It may be proper to add that the college exercises begin at 9 A. M. and end at 2 P. M.

I have the honor to be, with much respect,

Your obedient servant,

JAMES K. PATTERSON.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
FRANKFORT, February 26, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate :

I respectfully return, without my approval, a bill, originating in the Senate, entitled "An act to amend an act, entitled 'An act to incorporate the Louisville Railway Company,' " approved January 22, 1867.

By the original charter, the company was to have a corporate existence of thirty years. It was authorized to subscribe to the stock "of other city railroad companies," presumably in Louisville, but not restricted to that city in terms. It was also invested with the power "to acquire, by purchase or otherwise, the rights, privileges and franchises, of any or of all the corporations operating railways in the said city of Louisville, "with all their rights and immunities; and, with the consent of the General Council, to construct, maintain and operate street railroads * * * along and through any and all of the streets of Louisville, except such as are already occupied by other companies, or over, along and through which the right to construct railroads has already been granted." It was also authorized to "purchase and hold and sell and convey such real estate as may be deemed proper by the corporation, not exceeding in value $200,000 at one time."

The third section of the proposed amendment repeals the restriction as to the amount of property which may be held by the corporation, the amount being limited only by its own estimate of what may be deemed proper and necessary, a construction which is sustained by the terms of the fifth section, which authorizes subscriptions, even to the capital stock, either in money or property.

As the kind of property the corporation may thus own is not restricted, it may become not only a large landed proprietor, but may become the possessor and operator of any number of manufactories, and through them obtain the control of a large number of operatives.

The first section gives legislative sanction to an indefinite extension of the original charter, not only with the powers therein granted, and with the additional privileges stated above, but also with undefined powers which may be hereafter conceived in the mind of the General Council, and granted in perpetuity to the corporation, regardless of the rights and interests of the people of Louisville.

The hurtful effects of this section will be seen when the comparatively recent action of a former General Council is considered in connection with this corporation. The franchises enjoyed by this corporation are of great value.

If offered for sale they would doubtless bring a large revenue to the city. It was in the power of the General Council to restrict this company to the streets it already occupied. They still have that power. But about two years ago, without previous notice to the people, they closed all competition by granting to this corporation the use of every unoccupied street in the city.

The first clause of the first section of the amendment is designed to give legislative sanction to this action by perpetuating this resolution of the council, and thus to place it beyond the power of a future council to correct any former erroneous action in this regard.

The second clause of the section may be far-reaching in evil effects. It not only amounts to a virtual abdication by the General Assembly of its just control over the terms of a charter, but to a delegation of its own powers to a body whose past action has shown that it may act with inconsiderate haste.

It commits the legislative department, in advance, to the granting of unknown powers and privileges, in enacting that "the said corporation may, hereafter, build, maintain and operate such lines or routes of street railway, and with such motive power, and for such period, and on such terms and conditions, as may be agreed upon between said company and said city, or as may be provided by ordinance or resolution of the General Council."

If, as is generally believed, this railway corporation has already become an important factor in the choice of city officials, it may well conceive hopes that with the additional privileges conceded in the proposed amendments, its voice may be still more potential, and it may be safely concluded that the character of the additional powers and privileges which from time to time it might receive, would be limited only by the degree of influence it might exert over the General Council.

In the light of past history, it does not seem that the General Council of a city is a safe body to which to confide, without some supervising restraint, large legislative powers, which should be used for the protection of the people rather than for the aggrandizement of corporations. The curb of conservative legislation is necessary to restrain the aspirations of corporate power. The privileges of this corporation should be distinctly defined. The people, whose rights are affected, should not be left in uncertainty as to its powers. If powers are to be granted in perpetuity to this corporation, their extent should be known in advance. They should be fixed, and not mutable as the varying ideas of successive councils. If the undefined powers to be conferred are to be a blessing to the people, they ought to know the exact degree of benefit they are to derive. If they should result in oppression, they should know the extent of the wrong to be inflicted.

The proposed amendments to the charter place no other restriction upon the powers of the corporation than the will of the General Council, and concede in advance every privilege that they may choose to confer, however advantageous it may be to the corporation, and, however oppressive to the people.

I feel assured that the Senate will reconsider their action on this bill, and will decline to delegate such unrestricted and indefinite powers which can be properly and safely exercised only by the General Assembly.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

Said bill vetoed by the Governor reads as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That an act, entitled "An act to incorporate the Louisville Railway Company," approved January 21, 1867, be, and it is hereby, amended as follows: The charter of the said railway Company is hereby extended, and its corporate franchises shall continue in force with authority in the said company to maintain and operate the lines of railway now operated by it under its charter, or under any ordinance, resolution or contract with the city of Louisville, or under any lease or contract with any other street railway company in said city: Provided, however, That the same shall be operated in the manner and with the motive-power, and for the period prescribed by acts of the General Assembly, or so far as are not so prescribed, then as prescribed by ordinance or contract between said city and the said company or lesser companies; and the said company may hereafter build, maintain and operate such lines or routes of street railway, and with such motive-power and for such period, and on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between said company and said city, or as may be provided by ordinance or resolution of the general council.

§ 2. Where any other authorized company or person shall desire to run cars over any portion of the tracks operated by the said Louisville Railway Company, and the parties can not agree upon the terms of such use, then the said persons or company so desiring to use said tracks may, before using the same, apply to a court of equity in said city to fix a compensation and damages for the use of said right of way and tracks, and the loss or injury to said Louisville Railway Company, and in such proceedings the court may fix the terms upon which said use may be had, and these terms may be changed from time to time by said court, upon the application of either party: Provided, however, the right to use for railway purposes more than 500 feet of the said company's tracks or any street occupied by the said company's tracks, shall not be acquired by any other company or person, without the consent of the said Louisville Railway Company.

§ 3. The said company may purchase, hold and sell and convey, such real and personal estate as may be deemed proper and necessary.

§ 4. The said company shall have the right to borrow money and issue bonds to such an amount as may be authorized by a note of the holders of a majority of its stock, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, and running for a period not exceeding forty years from the date thereof, and it may execute proper deeds of trust or mortgage upon such of its real and personal property and franchises as the said holders of a majority of its stock shall designate.

§ 5. The subscription to the capital stock authorized by section 9 of the said charter, may be paid by such companies in money or property.

§ 6. This act shall take effect from its passage.

That section two of said act be, and is hereby, repealed, and the following substituted therefor: That if any corporation engaged in operating a railroad in this State, shall, directly or indirectly, by any special rate, rebate, brawback or other device, charge, demand, collect or receive from any person or persons, a greater or less compensation for any service rendered or to be rendered in the transportation of passengers or property subject to the provisions of this act, than it charges, demands, collects or receives from any other person or persons for doing for him or them a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of a like kind of traffic, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, such corporations shall be deemed guilty of unjust discrimination, which is hereby prohibited and declared to be unlawful

§ 3. That it shall be unlawful for any such corporation to make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic in any respect whatsoever, in the transportation of a like kind of traffic, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, or to subject any particular person, company, firm, corporation or locality, or any particular description of traffic to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage, when one or more car-loads of freight shall be transported at the same time for different persons, and for each shipment of a car-load or more, such shipment shall be considered and taken as the same quantity of freight within the meaning of this act, and when less than a car-load of freight, and over five thousand pounds are transported at the same time for different shippers, and for each shipper over five thousand pounds, such shipment shall be considered and taken as the same quantity of freight, and when over five hundred pounds and less than five thousand pounds are transported at the same time for different shippers, and for each shipper said quantity of freight, such shipments shall be considered and taken as the same quantity of freight.

§ 4. That all such corporations, subject to the provisions of this act, shall, according to their respective powers, afford all reasonable, proper and equal facilities for the interchange of traffic between their respective lines, and for the receiving, forwarding and delivering of passengers and property to and from their several lines, and those connecting therewith, and shall not unjustly discriminate in their rates and charges between such connecting lines, but this shall not be construed as requiring any such corporation to give the use of its tracks or terminal facilities to another corporation in like business, nor as requiring any such corporation to form through routes or through rates with any other corporation.

§ 5. That section 4 be amended by striking therefrom the words "three times," and adding thereto the words: "All prosecutions and actions against railroad corporations under the provisions of this act, shall be commenced within one year after the offense shall have been committed, or the cause of action shall have accrued." And that said section 4 be further amended by adding next after the word "court," in last line thereof, the words: "Provided, That indictments under this section shall be made only upon recommendation or request filed by the Board of Railroad Commissioners in the court having jurisdiction of the offenses named herein."

§ 6. That section 8 of said act be amended by repealing all after the word "State," in the fourth line thereof, and substituting therefor the following: The commissioners are authorized to draw on the Auditor for a sum not exceeding two thousand dollars per annum out of any funds not otherwise appropriated, to be used by them in paying clerk hire and other actual contingent expenses of the commission. The office of said commissioner shall be kept in Frankfort, and constantly open during business hours. That the commissioners shall, in the vouchers by which the two thousand ($2,000) appropriated in this bill, is expended, set forth the items of expense for which the voucher or vouchers are given.

§ 7. That said commissioners shall meet at their office on the first Monday in October in each year (two constituting a quorum) to discharge their duties as a "Board of Equalization," instead of meeting on the first of September, as now provided by law.

third and fourth sections of this act, under the first section of the act hereby amended, and the civil actions provided for in section 4 of the said act. Such complaints shall be made in writing, and they shall give the company complained of not less than ten days' notice of the time and place of hearing the same. They shall hear the evidence adduced by the parties, and render award as authorized by this act. If the award of the commissioners be not satisfied within ten days after the same is rendered, the chairman shall file a copy of said award in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the county, which, under the Code of Practice, would have jurisdiction of said controversy, and the clerk of said court shall enter the same on the motion docket for trial, and summons shall be issued to the party against whom the award shall have been rendered, requiring said party to appear before the judge of said court within twenty days, and show cause why the said award shall not be satisfied. If the matter in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, said judge or the court, if in regular term, on demand of either party, shall empanel a jury to try the same. If it does not exceed that sum, or a jury be not demanded, the court or judge shall hear and determine the same without the intervention of a jury. The court or judge may grant delay or continuance to either party, upon grounds which may seem just and reasonable. If the court or judge shall be of the opinion, or the jury shall find that the award of the said commissioners is just, judgment shall be so entered, and execution shall issue thereon as on other judgments; otherwise the party against whom the award shall have been rendered shall be dismissed, and the cost of said proceedings shall be taxed against the complainant in the action. The findings of fact by the commissioners shall accompany the award, and such findings and award shall thereafter, in all judicial proceedings, be prima facie evidences as to all matters included therein.

An act to amend the law as to the distribution of insolvent estates.

Ordered, That said bill be engrossed and read a third time.

Said bill was engrossed and read a third time as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That the rule of distribution under any deed of assignment made after this act goes into effect, as to priorities marshaling of securities and otherwise, shall be the same as is now directed by law to be observed in the distribution of the estates of decedents, except in this, that in all distributions of insolvent estates, whether in the winding up of assignments of decedents' estates, or of estates of parties who have attempted to prefer some of their creditors, the rule shall prevail, known as "the rule in bankruptcy," by which lien creditors are allowed to prove a claim against the general assets for that part of their demands which is not satisfied by their lien, and for that part alone.

§ 2. That no deed of assignment hereafter made, or purporting to be made, for the equal benefit of the grantor's creditors, shall be deemed void by reason of any fraudulent intent of the grantor, inducing the making of such deed, whether appearing on its face or not; nor by reason of any unlawful reservations, terms, conditions or clauses therein contained; nor by reason of any fraud or bad faith in the management of the trust; but any such fraudulent intent, unlawful reservation, terms, conditions or clauses, fraud or bad faith in the management, shall be ground for the removal of the assignee at the instance of a creditor and such other remedies by which a court of equity can secure the rights of all the creditors under the trust; and any such unlawful reservations, terms, conditions and clauses shall, moreover, in the conduct of the trust, be wholly disregarded.

§ 3. An assignee under a deed made for the benefit of the grantor's creditors, or any successor appointed for him, or a court of equity acting in his stead through a receiver, or otherwise, for the benefit of the creditors, shall, for the purposes of the trust, be vested with all the grantor's property and effects of every kind, whether held by the grantor or others, which a creditor, holding a judgment and an execution returned "No property found," could have subjected to the satisfaction of such grantor's debt; but where such property or effects are subject to the satisfaction of some demands only, then the assignee, his successor or the court, shall be vested therewith, for the benefit of the holders of such demands only, and to the extent only, that is needed for the satisfaction thereof.

§ 4. The rule holding the sale of personal chattels without delivery of possession, void, shall be the same in equity, as at law, whenever the recognition of any other rule would result in giving the vendee of such chattels any inequitable advantage or preference over any creditor of the vendor.

§ 5. Nothing in the first section of this act contained shall be construed as repealing the law contained in "An act to provide for laboring men and supply men," approved March 20, 1876, as far as the same is now in force, and in an act of May 4, 1880, amendatory thereof, published as article 3, of chapter 70, of Bullitt & Feland's edition of the General Statutes; but the lien given by said acts, as they now stand, shall apply to the settlement of insolvent decedents estates, the death of the debtor taking the place of an assignment for benefit of creditors under said act.

§ 6. Whenever a general attachment is issued hereafter on the ground given by subsection 2, of section 185, of the Code of Practice, in civil cases alone, or is issued on that and other grounds, but be sustained on the former ground only, the lien of the levy, except for the costs and such attorney's fee as the court may, in its equitable discretion, allow, shall be subordinate to the claims of creditors under a deed of assignment, which shall be lodged for record within thirty days after such attachment comes into the hands of the officer, or under an assignment by operation of law; that is, under an act of attempted preference, committed within such thirty days, and turned into a general assignment by article 2, of chapter 44, of the General Statutes.

§ 7. If an attachment on the ground named above alone, or on that ground and other grounds, but which can be sustained on that ground only, has been issued for a sum not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, and the defendant therein fails to make a general assignment within thirty days thereafter, his omission to do so shall be deemed an act of attempted preference as of the thirtieth day, and shall work an assignment, to which the lien of the attachment shall become subordinate to: Provided, That proceedings are taken within ninety days thereafter, and in the manner set forth in article 2, of chapter 44, of the General Statutes. But nothing herein contained shall be construed as abridging the rights of creditors to attack any attachment as collusive, as far as they have such right under the present law: And provided, also, That if the defendant in the attachment controvert the same effectually, and cause it to be discharged, he may thereby defeat the action to bring him within the statute against preferences in contemplation of insolvency.

It shall be the duty of the county superintendent of common schools of each county to report all violations of this act, by dealers and teachers to the county attorney, who shall prosecute such dealers and teachers in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which any such violation shall occur.

Said bill reads as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That from and after this act goes into effect all public moneys and dues shall be paid into and out of the Treasury as provided in this act.

§ 2. All public moneys and dues to the Commonwealth shall be paid into the Treasury upon the written permit or authority of the Auditor, as now, or may hereafter be, provided by law ; and the same, when paid to the Treasurer, shall be by him, on the same day, deposited in one of the State depositories hereinafter designated.

§ 3. The Auditor shall number and date the permits issued by him to pay money into the Treasury, beginning the first day of July, and ending the thirtieth day of June, inclusive, in each fiscal year, so as to exhibit the number, date and amount of each permit, and from whom and for what the money to be paid into the Treasury thereunder is payable. And the Treasurer, in making deposits in the State depositories, will do so by the numbers, and in the amounts corresponding with the Auditor's permits.

§ 4. No money shall be paid out of the Treasury, except upon the warrant of the Auditor, drawn upon the Treasurer, as now, or may hereafter, be provided by law, and then only by the check of the Treasurer upon a designated State depository, certified by the Auditor ; and no such check shall be given by the Treasurer, even though the Auditor issues a warrant therefor, unless the law under which the money may be claimed expressly directs and orders that it shall be paid out of the Public Treasury.

§ 5. The Auditor shall date and number his warrants, beginning the first day of July and ending the thirtieth day of June, inclusive, in each fiscal year, so as to exhibit the number, date and amount of each warrant, on what account issued, and to whom payable. § 7. The president or cashier of each of said State depositories shall, at the close of the business hours each day, furnish a statement, over his official signature, to the Auditor, showing the amounts deposited therein by, and paid out on, the checks of the Treasurer during said day, and the balance then remaining therein, to the credit of the Treasury.

§ 8. The Farmers' Bank of Kentucky and the Branch Bank of Kentucky, at Frankfort, are hereby continued and constituted the State depositories; and all public money of the State now in, or hereafter received into, the Treasury, shall be deposited in said depositories, in amounts as nearly equal as convenience will permit. And the Governor may, from time to time, as to him may seem necessary, examine into the condition of the State depositories and the manner in which the State's account is therein kept, and if he shall at any time find that the capital of any depository has become impaired, he shall have power to cause the State's deposit to be withdrawn therefrom, and temporarily name another depository, which, when so named, shall, with its president and cashier, be subject to the provisions of this act. For services rendered by the said depositories there shall be no charge made of any character or description.

§ 2. In selecting such banks due regard shall be paid to the financial standing of said bank, the rate of interest proposed to be paid on the daily balances of the State, the amount of capital and general reputation thereof.

§ 3. Nothing contained herein shall be so construed as in any way affecting the powers and duties appertaining to the Sinking Fund Commissioners under chapter 101, of the General Statutes, nor shall it be deemed in any way a release of the Treasurer from any liability on his official bond.

Amended by striking out the whole of section 8, and in lieu thereof insert the following: "There shall be two or more State depositories, selected and designated by the Governor from the State banks of this State, that may be able to comply with the provisions of this act, and all public money of the State now in, or hereafter received into the Treasury, shall be deposited in such depositories, and the Governor shall have power to make terms with said depositories, under which they shall receive and hold said money; and shall prefer such good, solvent and safe State banks as will pay fair and reasonable interest on the average daily deposit. The Governor shall give notice to the several State banks, and fix a day on which he will select said depositories, by publication in some daily papers having a general circulation, for at least thirty days before making said selection, and will, immediately after making said selections, notify the Treasurer thereof. The Governor, from time to time, as to him may seem best, may examine into the condition of the State depositories, and the manner in which the State's account is kept therein, and if he shall, at any time, find that the capital of any depository has become impaired, or said depository shall fail to make proper and correct statements of its condition, or the State's account, he shall have power to cause the State's deposit to be withdrawn therefrom, and placed in some other depository to be selected, and when so selected and designated, said depositories and their several presidents, cashiers and other officers, shall be subject to the provisions of this act, and said depositories shall make no charge for their services."

Mr. Terry, from the special joint committee appointed to investigate the condition of the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices, made the following report, viz:

LEGISLATURE OF KENTUCKY, }
SESSION OF 1889-90. }
FRANKFORT, —————, 1890. }

Hon JAMES W. BRYAN, Speaker of the Senate, and Hon. HARVEY MYERS, Speaker of the House of Representatives :

Your joint committee, appointed to investigate the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices, beg leave to report that we have performed that duty by making a careful study of the system of business required under the law relating to both offices, and an examination of each department and the books, accounts, and papers of each desk. Both Auditor Norman and Treasurer Sharp afforded us every facility for making the investigation thorough and effective. All the records were subject to our inspection, and explanations, when necessary, were made to the committee by both officers and their clerks.

Our investigation began from April 20, 1888, when Treasurer Sharp first assumed charge of his office as the successor of James W. Tate (and up to which time the joint committee of the last Legislature made their investigation), and covered the time to the end of the Treasurer's fiscal term, on January 6, 1890.

We found the work in both the Auditor's and Treasurer's offices neatly, correctly and intelligently performed, the clerks competent and diligent in their respective duties, and the system, as carried out under the law, in reference to the receipts and expenditures, a complete counter-check of one office upon the other. The plan of the Treasurer of making daily deposits of his receipts, and of paying out no money upon the warrants of the Auditor, except through checks upon the banks, we think a safeguard against error and temptation, which should be commended. The Auditor has his office so thoroughly organized and systematized as to give the public prompt and efficient service in each of the multifarious channels which flow in and out of his department from every county in the State. We found that the Auditor and Treasurer had complied with the law in regard to the monthly settlements in presence of the State Examiner, and that copies of these settlements had been lodged by the Auditor with the Secretary of State, as well as a notice of such filing with the Governor. The law also makes it the duty of the State Examiner to report to the Governor his presence at these monthly settlements.

We made our investigation in detail, from meeting to meeting, in the presence of both Auditor and Treasurer, adding and comparing each source of revenue and warrant of expenditure, both by the permits of the Auditor upon the Treasurer to receive money, as compared with the receipts of the Treasurer to the Auditor for the money so received, and by checking and counter-checking by both deposit and warrant stubs, bank checks and tally-sheets between the two offices taken from their ledgers, and we found the cash balances each month in the Treasury correct, as shown upon the monthly settlements made by the Auditor as aforestated, in the presence of the State Examiner.

While the books of the two offices agreed in the balances on January 6, 1890, still, from the statements of the banks, the Treasurer had $11.73 more to his credit than either his books or the Auditor's books called for—a fault, doubtless, to which the State is not likely to take exception.

The following was the condition of the Treasury at that date :

CASH IN BANKS.

Farmers' Bank of Kentucky, Frankfort	$229,489 26
Branch Bank of Kentucky, Frankfort	276,184 72
State National Bank of Frankfort, Frankfort	123,091 78
Phoenix National Bank, Lexington	50,000 00
<hr/>
Total	$678,765 76
Outstanding warrants issued by Auditor	268,330 50
<hr/>
Treasurer's balance in banks shows	$410,435 23
The books of Auditor and Treasurer show the balance should be	410,423 50
Excess in banks	$ 11 73

In conclusion, we think the State has been well served in these departments, both by Auditor L. C. Norman and Treasurer S. G. Sharp. Major Norman succeeded to the office of Auditor in November last, by the appointment of Governor Buckner, yet in the few months following, he has shown by his record and comprehensive grasp of the laws, and the details of his office, that he aims to make his administration clean, thorough and faithful.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. TERRY, Chairman.

§ 2. Every such action shall be brought by and in the name of the personal representative of the deceased person ; but, if the personal representative fail for six months to bring such action, then the action may be brought by any person who would be entitled to any part or all of the amount recovered, and to such action, when brought by a person other than the personal representative, all persons who would be entitled to any part of the amount that may be recovered shall be made parties ; the amount recovered shall be exempt from the debts and liabilities of the deceased person. Mr. Hays, from the Committee on Banks and Insurance, to whom was recommitted a bill, which originated in the Senate, entitled

An act to incorporate the inter-State Guarantee and Trust Company,

Reported the same, without amendment.

Said bill reads as follows, viz:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That Joshua D. Powers, Edmund T. Halsey, Daniel W. Lindsay, Roszal Weissinger and William Lindsay, and such other persons as they, or a majority of them, may associate with themselves, their successors and assigns, shall be, and they are hereby constituted and declared to be a body politic and corporate, by the name of "Inter-State Guarantee and Trust Company," and by said name may sue and be sued, plead and be pleaded, in any and all courts, and may have and use a common seal, and alter and change the same at will. Said company is authorized to purchase, hold, enjoy, possess and dispose of any real estate or personal estate necessary for the transaction of its corporate business; and any such as may be mortgaged, or conveyed to it in good faith by way of security, for loans or other indebtedness of the mortgagers, and such other as shall be conveyed to it in satisfaction of any debts previously contracted in the course of its business, and such as it shall purchase at sales, upon judgments and decrees obtained for such debts; but all such real estate, except lands mortgaged or otherwise in lien to it, and such as shall be necessary for the convenient transaction of its business, shall be sold and disposed of within five years after the said corporation shall have acquired the legal title thereto.

§ 2. The said corporation may conduct its business in Louisville, Kentucky, or elsewhere, and shall have the following objects of business and powers:

1. It may purchase, discount, hold and dispose of notes, bonds, stocks and certificates of deposit, or other evidences of the indebtedness of any corporation or individual. It may guarantee the performance of contracts for the construction of works of public improvement, and, in such cases, if deemed necessary for its protection, with the consent of the contractors, may control and execute such contracts. It may make loans or advances upon such securities as it may approve, and take compensation therefore in the stock, bonds or notes of any other corporation or individual. It may guarantee the interest or principal, or both, of any securities, corporate or individual, and may receive therefor such compensation as may be agreed on at the time of such guaranty. It may receive moneys on deposit and pay interest thereon, and make investments on its own account, or on account of those depositing money with it for investment.

2. The said corporation may be appointed and may act as guardian of infants, as executor, administrator or committee of lunatics, as receiver, assignee or other trustee, whether appointed by deed, by last will and testament, by any court within this Commonwealth, or in any other manner not inconsistent with law. It may receive and hold in trust, estate, real and personal, including the notes, bonds, obligations and accounts of estates and individuals, of companies and corporations, private or public, and may, in its fiduciary capacity, purchase, collect, adjust and settle, sell and dispose of the same in this State and elsewhere. It may act as agent or attorney in the leasing, conveying and managing real and personal estate, receiving and collecting rents and other moneys, in the issuing and countersigning certificates of stock, bonds or other obligations of any corporation, association, municipality, State or public authority, and may receive and manage any sinking fund therefor, and may accept and execute all such trusts, of every description, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, as may be committed to it by any person or persons, or by any corporation, or by any court of record in this or any other State. The capital stock of said company shall be taken and considered as the only security required by law for the faithful performance of its duties; and other securities shall not be required upon its appointment to any of the offices or duties mentioned herein, except as hereinafter provided. The capital stock of said company shall also be taken and accepted as the only surety or security required by law, on any bond or bonds, required or necessary to be executed by said company as guardian, committee of person or persons of unsound mind, in proceedings to sell the real property of persons under disability, as provided by the Civil Code of Practice, title 10, chapter 14, or as is now, or may hereafter be provided by law, or upon any other bond or bonds required or necessary to be executed by said company as guardian, trustee or otherwise, or upon any bond of indemnity, or other bond or bonds that may be required of said company in the course of any judicial proceeding, or in the prosecution of any remedy allowed by law to it in any of its fiducial capacities, except that this shall not apply to bonds for injunctions, attachments or like provisional remedies. But any court having authority to make or approve such appointments, or to take or approve such bonds, shall have power, before making or approving the same, and from time to time afterwards to examine the officers of the company under oath or affirmation, as to the security aforesaid, and require the production of such books as may be necessary; and, in cases in which the court shall deem it necessary for the protection of a particular trust fund or estate, or to the making of a sufficient indemnity, security, in addition to the capital stock of the company, may be required. The funds of the trust department of this corporation, should one be established, shall be invested in real estate, mortgage notes or bonds, or in such other interest-bearing or dividend-paying securities as are regarded by prudent business men as safe investments; and this corporation may make loans of such funds, with such securities as collateral, and this company may likewise invest such funds in such securities as are now, or may hereafter be authorized by law for trustees; provided that such funds shall not be loaned upon personal security alone, or be invested in the bonds or securities of any railroad or other corporation, unless such railroad or other corporation has been in operation more than five (5) years, and during that time has not defaulted in the payment of principal or interest on its bonded debt; nor in the bonds of a county, town or city that within ten years has defaulted in the payment of principal or interest on its bonded debt. The funds of the trust department shall be kept separate and apart from the other investments, and designated upon the books of the company as "Investments of Trust Capital," and said trust capital shall be specially and primarily liable for the obligations of said company as executor, administrator, guardian, receiver, assignee or trustee, or in any other fiduciary capacity, and shall not be liable for any other debt or obligation of the company until all its trust liabilities as aforesaid have been discharged. In the exercise by said company of the powers hereby authorized, as guardian, executor, administrator, committee of lunatics, or any office or duty imposed by a court, said company shall be subject to the same duties and responsibilities, shall have the same powers, and shall receive the same compensation as may be fixed by law with relation to individuals holding similar offices of trust, except as otherwise herein specially provided. The exercise of the other powers and the performance of other duties by said company may be, as to compensation and otherwise, matters of contract with the parties interested.

3. Promissory notes, payable to any person or persons, or to a corporation, and payable and negotiable at the office of this company, or at any bank incorporated under any law of this Commonwealth, or organized in this Commonwealth under any law of the United States, which shall be indorsed to, or discounted by this company, or by any bank incorporated under any law of this Commonwealth, or organized in the Commonwealth under any law of the United States, shall be, and they are hereby placed on the same footing as foreign bills of exchange.

4. It may make, purchase, sell or lease locomotives, freight and passenger cars, and other equipments to be used on railroads, and may assign, set over, pledge or mortgage any such rolling stock, or any obligations received by it from any sale or lease of such rolling stock.

5. It may guarantee principal or interest, or both, of the bonds or notes of any railroad, or other corporation or individual. It may become bound as surety upon the sale of bonds taken by any court in this Commonwealth at any judicial sale. It may become bound and be accepted as the guarantor and surety against the unfaithfulness and dishonesty of persons holding positions of pecuniary trust and responsibility, whether public or private, and as surety or guarantor in the obligations or other contracts of any person or persons, or corporations, including any bonds or other evidences of liability required by law to be taken or approved by any person, officer or court in this State or elsewhere, except bonds in criminal proceedings. Any person, corporation, officer or court taking or accepting such company as surety in or upon any contract, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness, may agree with said company, and prescribe and limit the amount of its liability to such surety or guarantor.

6. It may issue its bonds and debentures on such terms and in such amounts as it may deem proper, and secure the same by a pledge or mortgage of any of its property or assets.

7. It may divide its business into such departments, and control the same by such officers and regulations as the by-laws may prescribe. It may do any act necessary to carry out its corporate powers, having the same power in such respects as a natural person.

§ 3. The capital stock of said company shall be $100,000 (one hundred thousand dollars), divided into shares of $100 (one hundred dollars) each. This stock shall be divided into two classes, as follows: The first class shall consist of one hundred shares, $10,000, which shall be known as "founders' shares." The second class shall consist of nine hundred shares, $90,000, which shall be known as "general shares." This company may begin active business as soon as the founders' shares, $10,000, and as much as four hundred and fifty (450) of the general shares, $45,000, have been subscribed and paid for in cash. The profits of the company shall be divided as follows: Out of any net profits made, the directors may, at any time or times, declare a dividend of six per cent. (6 per cent.), payable to the general shares, after which the profits remaining shall be divided equally, one-half to the holders of the founders' shares, and one-half to the holders of the general shares. The directors may provide, from time to time, with the consent of the holders, of a majority of the founders' shares, for a surplus fund, in advance of any dividend, which surplus fund, as well as any accumulated assets, shall, at all times, belong one-half to the holders of the founders' shares, and the other half to the holders of the general shares, subject to the liabilities of the company. The capital stock of the company may be increased by issuing general shares only, from time to time, to any amount agreed on by the stockholders at any meeting, not to exceed five million dollars, provided that an increase of stock ordered to be made shall be fully paid within one year from date of increase, and so much of said increase as shall not be paid within the time specified, shall become invalid. The incorporators above named may open stock-books for subscription to the stock of this company at such times and places, and for such length of time, as they may determine, and as soon as the founders' shares aforesaid have been subscribed, may organize this corporation; the above-named corporators shall act as directors until their successors are chosen and have qualified, and shall have power to fill any vacancies in their number, which may occur from any cause.

§ 4. The affairs and business of this corporation shall be managed by a board, of not less than five nor more than twenty-one directors, who shall be stockholders, and who shall be elected annually by the stockholders, and shall serve until their successors shall be elected and qualified. The board of directors shall have power to elect a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and such other officers and agents as they may deem necessary for conducting the business of the corporation, and may prescribe their duties, and require any of them to give bond for the faithful performance of such duties. The board of directors shall have power to make, alter, repeal and amend all by-laws, rules and regulations deemed necessary for conducting the affairs of the company, not inconsistent with the laws of this State, subject to the power of the stockholders to make, alter, repeal and amend such by-laws. The by-laws shall provide for extraordinary and annual meetings of the stockholders, at which meetings each share-holder shall be entitled to one vote for every share of stock held by him, which may be cast in person or by written proxy. The by-laws may determine what number of directors shall constitute a quorum.

§ 5. It shall be lawful for this company, at any time, to change its corporate name and adopt another, but such change of name must be certified to the Secretary of State of this Commonwealth, under the corporate seal of the corporation, and it shall not take effect until such certificate is filed with the said Secretary.

§ 6. This act shall take effect and be in force from its passage, but shall become void and of no effect if the corporation herein and hereby created shall fail to organize and commence business within three years from and after the first day of July, 1890.

An act for the benefit of W. Carpenter, of Bullitt county,

Reported the same, without amendment.

Ordered, That said bill be engrossed and read a third time.

Said bill was engrossed and read a third time, as follows, viz:

WHEREAS, W. Carpenter was appointed Branch Penitentiary Commissioner to build a Branch Penitentiary under an act of the Kentucky Legislature at or near Eddyville, Kentucky (see act). When the act was passed it was understood that the work would be let out by contract, which, after properly advertising for bidders, one portion of the work was awarded to C. R. Mason & Co. and another portion of the work was awarded to Myer, Simmons & Co. They commenced the work, and soon discovered they had undertaken the work for less than they could do it without great loss to them. They put on the work a large force, with the expectation of forcing the work as speedily as possible. Commissioners were compelled to cancel their contracts, as the Auditor informed the commissioners that the State could not furnish more than four or five thousand dollars per month, when the contractors expected double that sum per month. On the failure of the State to furnish sufficient means to carry on said work, they compelled the commissioners to cancel the contracts. The commissioners had no other alternative but to either let the work again or undertake to do the work as best they could, which they undertook, with much labor and attention, neglecting their own work at their homes. The commissioners were required to give bond, each, and took the oath to well and truly perform their duties under the aforesaid act of Legislature to the best of their ability. They served from April, 1884, to April, 1888, four years, when the Legislature passed another act, relieving the three commissioners and making but one commissioner, which was given to General H. B. Lyon, one of the first-appointed commissioners, at a salary of twenty-four hundred dollars per annum; therefore,

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. That twenty-five hundred dollars be, and is hereby, appropriated to W. Carpenter for his services in superintending the aforesaid work for the time he served—four years—to be paid to said W. Carpenter out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and the Auditor is hereby authorized to draw his warrant on the Treasurer of Kentucky in favor of said W. Carpenter for the aforesaid sum of twenty-five hundred dollars for his said services.

§ 2. This act to be in force from its passage.

Mr. Hendrick moved that the session of the Senate be extended until the bill under consideration was disposed of.

Which was granted.

A message in writing was received from the Governor by Hon. Willis Ringo, Assistant Secretary of State.

Said message was taken up and read as follows, viz :

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
FRANKFORT, March 21, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives :

I have under consideration a bill which has been passed by both Houses of the General Assembly, reducing the revenue of the State in the amount of five cents on every one hundred dollars of assessed values. All this reduction applies to the general expenditure fund, by which every department of the government, except that of education is sustained. This bill proposes a reduction of this fund from twenty cents to fifteen cents on the hundred dollars of valuation, thus taking away one-fourth of the general expenditure fund, without any reduction of the appropriations.

The aspect of the question is so serious, involving as it does, the credit of the State, that before taking action on this bill the Executive desires it eminently proper to communicate with the General Assembly on the subject. The Executive is in full sympathy with the legislative department in their desire to reduce taxation. While the taxation for general purposes is much lower than in other States, it is due to the people whom we represent to reduce it to the lowest possible rate consistent with the public welfare, and to limit the expenses of government to the actual necessities of public administration, in order that such reduction may be effected. But before reducing the rate of taxation, it is incumbent on us to take care that the revenue be sufficient to pay the indebtedness incurred. The people desire low taxation, but they do not wish it at the cost of public dishonor. Indebtedness can not be paid by resolution, and a resolution cutting off the revenue will not relieve the people from responsibilities incurred in consequence of appropriations in excess of the revenue, such reduction would result only in financial embarrassment and a heavier taxation subsequently to meet additional costs resulting from such embarrassment. The Executive believes that a reduction of the present rate of taxation is entirely practicable, but that it can be safely accomplished only after wholesome legislation that will cut off extravagant expenses which ought not to be a charge on the State, and by stopping the almost innumerable leaks through which the public money is emptied from the Treasury into local or individual coffers, and by the repeal of all legislation which improperly exempts property from taxation.

In order that the critical position in which the public finances will be placed if this bill become a law, your attention is invited to the report of the Auditor in connection with subsequent and proposed legislation. The Auditor's estimate was based on the hypothesis that the present rates of taxation would be continued, and that the appropriations would not exceed his estimates. The appropriations, it is believed, already exceed the estimates of the Auditor.

In addition to these accomplished appropriations, bills are pending in the General Assembly which, if they become laws, will still further reduce the revenues and increase the expenses.

The bill changing the method of taxing banks, proposes a reduction of the State revenues to the amount of about $74,000. The bill to pay witnesses in examining courts will increase the expenses in the sum of $40,000 or $50,000. The bill to change the pay of assessors proposes an increase of expenses, amounting to probably $15,000 or $20,000. Under existing legislation the ratio of increase in witness and jury expenses and maintenance of idiots is rapid, and, unless checked, will result in largely increased expenses. The cost of the Constitutional Convention, which was not included in the estimate of the Auditor, can not be safely placed at less than $100,000.

A number of bills are now before the Executive still further increasing the already excessive list of exemptions, and enlarging the already copious leaks in the public Treasury.

When the accomplished and pending and prospective legislation is considered, it is evident that if the amount of the general expenditure fund be materially reduced, the bankruptcy of the Treasury and the consequent financial dishonor of the State seem almost inevitable.

But it is believed that this result may be avoided and that taxation may be reduced by appropriate legislation. The expenses of witnesses and of juries seem out of all proportion to the results attained.

Appropriate legislation would result in a large reduction of expenditures on this account.

One thousand one hundred and eighteen idiots are now supported at their homes at a public cost of more than $106,000. These should not be a charge on the Treasury, but should be supported by the counties. But if the system of State support be continued, the cost could be materially diminished by supporting idiots of the school age only at the Institution for Feeble-minded Children, and by a more careful investigation of the condition of those placed on the roll. It is believed that such legislation would materially diminish the number of persons classed as idiots, and save a large sum to the State. Your attention has already been invited to the large amount of property exempted from taxation. This exemption necessarily throws a heavier burden upon all other property, and is not wanting in equity only, but also in constitutional authority for the enactment of such legislation. A radical change in this respect seems essential to place the legislative department in harmony with the judicial interpretations of the Constitution. Appropriate legislation on this subject, demanded by a just regard for the interests of the whole people, would largely increase the list of property which does not now pay anything towards the support of the society which protects them.

Analogous to exemptions are the privileges conferred upon special communities to divert from the Treasury the fines and forfeitures inflicted in consequence of violations of the penal laws of the Commonwealth with authority to apply them to local uses. If one locality be permitted this degree of support from the Treasury, all should enjoy the same privilege.

Taxation would then be equitable, while, under existing partial legislation, particular localities are protected at the expense of all others. A general act should correct this partial legislation, thus restoring to the Treasury a very considerable sum annually.

You have already considered the losses constantly sustained by the State from the inefficient collection of fines and forfeitures, and of the improper withholding from the State its just portion of these penalties. Until this leakage is stopped by appropriate legislation, the State will continue to be deprived of a large part of its revenue from this source. The record-books of the different counties cost the Treasury about $22,000 annually. This should not be a charge upon the State at all. The county record-books, at least, should be paid for by the counties, as is done, it is believed, in every other State.

But if the present system is retained; the cost can be materially reduced. At present every county and circuit clerk can purchase books, without restriction as to number or price, and call upon the Auditor to pay the bill. These books should be furnished on requisitions properly guarded and limited to the actual necessities of the courts, and made on an official of the State, who should purchase them as required from the lowest bidder.

At present all the statutes are published, constituting, for the last Legislature, 3,000 copies of 3 large volumes each. Acts of a general character would all be embraced in one small volume. The Private and Local Acts have no general interest. It is not essential to the public to publish 6,000 volumes giving information only that some rivulet has been declared navigable, or publishing an extensive code of laws for some village. This is of interest to the locality ; but the publication of the Local and Private Acts should be limited to two hundred copies, which will supply every county and the libraries with a copy.

Your attention might be called to numerous other cases where legislative remedies are desirable, and which you have doubtless considered very closely. But it is believed that enough has been suggested to show that in the existing condition of public legislation the proposed reduction of the revenue is premature.

The general expenditure fund was reduced to fifteen cents March, 1876. As the leaks of the Treasury were not stopped, the result was financial embarrassment, the borrowing of money at interest until the limit of indebtedness was reached, a bonded indebtedness of $500.00 to capitalize the floating debt, and an increase of the taxation to the former rate of twenty cents.

Two years ago a bill was passed again, reducing the tax to fifteen cents without diminishing the appropriations. If Executive sanction had been given to that act, the Treasury would have been bankrupt to-day.

It behooves us to profit by the experience of the past. As the servants of the people, it is our duty to reduce taxation to the lowest point consistent with the public welfare ; but we owe them, if possible, a still higher duty, to maintain taxation at a rate which will protect the credit of the Commonwealth and the honor of the people.

Under existing circumstances I trust that the General Assembly will permit me to suggest that they consider the propriety of recalling this bill for reconsideration, and that by their appropriate committees they determine the best means of reducing the expenses and saving to the Treasury the sums now wasted by leakage. If, after such legislation as in your wisdom may seem best, it is found practicable to reduce taxation, you may rely upon the co-operation of the Executive in your patriotic purposes.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

All funds arising from the sale of bonds under this act, and all funds collected for the purpose of defraying the annual expenses of said schools, and for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds, or for any other purpose, shall go into the hands of said treasurer, who shall, together with his sureties, be responsible therefor. Said treasurer shall pay out said funds only for the purposes for which they were respectively collected, upon the written order of the president and secretary of said board of trustees. § 17. Said board of trustees shall provide [funds] for purchasing suitable grounds and buildings, or for erecting suitable buildings, and for other expenses needful in conducting a good graded common school in their respective graded common school districts; and to this end, it shall be the duty of said board of trustees, in their discretion, and they are hereby authorized and empowered to issue the bonds of their respective graded common school districts in such an amount, not exceeding in the § 20. The assessments made by the county assessors each year are hereby adopted in all cases as the assessments for graded common school purposes, except as to railroads and other companies or corporations, assessed by the State in some other mode, and in that case, the assessment so made by the State, through the Auditor's office, or otherwise, is hereby adopted as the assessment of such property for graded common school purposes. If the owner of any property so listed, claims that the valuation so made is excessive, he shall have the right to bring the matter before the trustees for correction, if done within thirty (30) days after the assessor returns his lists. The board

§ 21. The sheriff or collector, if the trustees so direct, shall collect these taxes in the same manner as the State revenue is collected, and shall have the same power and authority in the collection of said taxes as is conferred on sheriffs or revenue collectors of this Commonwealth in the collection of the State revenue. The sheriff shall act under his official bond, but the collector shall execute bond running in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, for the use and benefit of the graded common school trustees, for which the tax is collectable, with good and sufficient security, to be by said board approved, for the faithful performance of his duties, with the same penalties as are, or may be, prescribed by law for sheriffs in the collection of said State revenue, and said board shall fix and allow his compensation, but not greater than is allowed by law for collection of State revenue. The said sheriff or collector shall be responsible on his bond for any and all delinquencies as collectors of the State revenue. § 24. That two magistrates of each precinct, together with the county surveyor of each county in this State, shall constitute a board of "fence viewers" for the precinct in which the magistrates may reside, and shall be authorized and empowered to act under the provisions of this act.

§ 2. Any fence viewer who shall, when requested, unreasonably neglect to view any fence, or to perform any of the duties required of him in this act, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty-five dollars, and be liable to the party for any injury done consequent to such neglect.

§ 3. Each fence viewer shall get two dollars per day for all necessary time spent in discharging duties imposed by this act, to be paid in the first instance by party or parties requiring service, all parties bearing it equally, except in case of a view to appraise damage for neglect or refusal to make and maintain a just proportion of a division fence, in which it shall, with all costs, be paid by party in fault, and be recovered as part of damage assessed.

§ 4. All owners of adjoining land shall keep and maintain in good repair all partition fences between them, in equal share, so long as both parties continue to occupy or improve such land, unless otherwise agreed.

§ 5. Every fence shall be lawful when built as follows: Every strong and sound fence of rail, or plank, or iron, four and one-half feet high, and being so close that cattle or other stocks can not creep through it; worm fence, composed of rails, shall be staked and ridged or locked on the corners with stout rails, stakes or posts. Those composed of stone shall be eighteen inches wide at the bottom and twelve at the top. Those composed of brick, not less than twelve inches at top and bottom. When posts are used for plank picketing, or postenrail, they shall be set in the ground two feet, and close enough together to insure a strong fence. Rivers, brooks, creeks, lakes, ponds, ditches, hedges, and constructions which shall be equivalent thereto, in the judgment of the fence viewers, shall be deemed a legal and efficient fence.

§ 6. If any party neglect to repair or rebuild a partition fence, or the portion thereof which he ought to maintain, the aggrieved party may complain to the fence viewers, who, after due notice to each party, shall examine the same, and, if they determine that the fence is insufficient, shall signify it, in writing, to the delinquent occupant of the land, and direct him to repair or rebuild the same within such time as they may judge reasonable, considering the season.

§ 7. If such fence be not then repaired or rebuilt, then complainant may then repair or rebuild it, and the same being adjudged sufficient by the fence viewers, and the value thereof, with their fees, being ascertained by them, and certified under their hand, the complainant may demand of the owners of the land where the fence was deficient the sum so ascertained, and in case of neglect to pay the same for one month after demand, may recover it, with interest at one per cent. per month, in any court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 8. When any controversy may come up as to the rights of respective owners of a partition fence, or their rights to keep it in repair, and they shall not agree, then either party shall apply to the fence viewers, who, after a due notice to the other party, shall assign to each party, in writings, his equal share of fence in dispute, which each shall keep in good repair, which assignment be recorded in the county clerk's office, in a book kept for that purpose, which decision shall be conclusive and final. Both parties and all succeedant occupants of the land shall maintain their respective portions of this fence respectively assigned.

§ 9. If one of the parties then neglect or refuse to put part of fence assigned him in good order, and maintain it so, the aggrieved party shall then be entitled to recover all of the ascertained cost and damage, and one per cent. per month interest, by action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

§ 10. The assignment of the fence viewers shall be in writing, and signed by at least two of them, giving a description of the partition fence divided, and the names of the owners and present occupants, and it shall be recorded in the county clerk's office, and shall be final and binding on the parties and all succeedant occupants of the land regarding fence divided.

§ 11. When in controversy between owners of adjoining lands as to their respective rights to a partition fence, and it shall appear to the fence viewers that one of the owners had, before any complaint was made, come in possession or erected the whole fence, or more than his equal share, then the fence viewer shall assess against the other a reasonable compensation for as much of the fence which will make each equal owners.

§ 12. All fence shall be kept in good repair throughout the year, without there is an agreement by the owners of both lands otherwise.

§ 13. When lands owned in severalty have been inclosed in common without a partition fence, and one of the owners is desirous to occupy his land alone, and the others refuse or neglect on demand to divide the line where the fence should be built, or to build and maintain a sufficient fence on his half of the line when divided and assigned by the fence viewers after a reasonable time, the notice being in writing for making the fence, then the other party, after making his own part, may make the rest of the fence, and recover the cost for the same, together with the fence viewers' fees and one per cent. interest per month as above provided.

§ 14. Any party having determined to throw his land open to the commons shall not take away the partition fence, or any part of it, except after three months' notice to the adjoining land owners, and only then between the first of December and first of March, and only then after he has offered to sell said fence at a price they may agree on, or at its value as assigned by the fence viewers in writing.

§ 15. When a partition fence is to be made or divided—lays partly in one precinct and partly in the other—then one magistrate shall be from each precinct, together with the county surveyor; or, when part of the fence to be divided or made lays in one county and part in the other, then the magistrates of the two precincts in which it is situated shall serve, together with the surveyor from the county where the greater part of the line may lay, and the decision of the fence viewers shall be recorded in that county also.

§ 16. The word owner shall be held to mean the occupant or tenant when the real owner is a non-resident, but he shall be responsible to the occupant or tenant for the cost of erection and maintenance of division fence under this act, if there is no agreement between them to the contrary.

§ 17. Any person building a fence may put it on the line, or on his own side of line, so as it may be used as a division fence.

§ 18. When the fence is a creek, river, brook, pond, or ditch, and the viewers shall not deem it sufficient, they shall divide the length of line and fix on which side the fence shall be built, as well as the water gates or water fences, dividing the burden equally between the owners.

Said message was taken up and read as follows, viz :

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, }
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
FRANKFORT, April 4, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate :

I respectfully return, without my approval, a bill originating in the Senate, and entitled "An act to incorporate the Kenyon Bank, Trust and Guarantee Company."

The title of the bill does not accord with the name given in the first section, where the corporation is styled the "Kenyon Trust and Guarantee Company of Louisville, Kentucky," though banking privileges are given in section ten, and the powers of a safety deposit company, as well as those of loaning deposits and other money are given in sections two and three.

The first section also empowers the company "to establish and maintain branches, branch offices and agencies at such other places in or out of the United States, and, for such periods as to the board of directors of said company may appear necessary or convenient," and section six authorizes the board to meet at any place they may select.

The first section also authorizes the company to acquire real estate in various ways, and the proviso at the end of the section is so framed as to authorize it to retain the lands obtained under mortgage sales or purchases, even though not necessary for the business of the company.

The fourth section fixes the capital stock at $50,000, and authorizes business to be commenced on a subscription of $20,000 and the payment of $10,000. Authority is also given to increase the capital, from time to time, "to such an extent and such an amount as the board of directors may deem for the best interests of the company." No limit is fixed to the amount of the increase, but such increase shall not go into effect until official notification of the proposed increase is given to the Secretary of State; but no provision is made for the payment of any portion of the stock beyond the first amount of $10,000.

The powers conferred in a charter should be sufficiently distinct to limit the beneficiaries to some definite class of duties or business, and the title of the bill should be some index to the public of the purposes of the act.

While the title of the present bill would seem to restrict the company to a particular line of duties, the body of the bill permits an almost unlimited range of privileges to the corporation. This is especially observable in the sixth section, where it is enacted:

"That the directors, or a majority of them, for the time being, shall have power to make and prescribe such by-laws, rules and regulations as to them shall appear needful and proper for the management, custody and disposition of the assets of the company, of whatever nature the same may be, and for the government of said corporation, and the transaction of its business and to fulfill the purposes of this act, and to amend, alter and revoke the same at pleasure, provided nevertheless, that such by-laws, rules and regulations shall not be repugnant to the Constitution of this State or of the United States."

In a previous section this corporation seemed willing to subordinate its regulations in regard to certain parts of its business to the "laws of the State of Kentucky or of the United States," but in this section while conceding the supremacy of the constitutions it seems to claim the right of legislating in such a way as to subordinate the laws of the State to its own by-laws, when it chooses to legislate in regard to "the disposition of the assets of the company of whatever nature the same may be," and for "the transaction of its business." Assuming that the General Assembly could thus delegate its powers of legislation, there would be no restriction whatever on the character of the business this corporation might undertake, or of the legislation it might enact in pursuit of its objects.

If the company is designed to be what the title of the bill indicates that it ought to be, the small amount of the payment required on its stock is no adequate security for any of the purposes indicated; especially when it is authorized to dispose of its assets in any manner that it pleases. If it proposes to embark in business foreign to that indicated by the title, the nature of the business should be distinctly defined and not left to conjectures based upon the character of the legislation which it may enact from time to time, in the interests of its own ventures.

It is not seen that any public benefit can be subserved by this proposed legislation. The act might have a merchantable value in the charter markets of the world, with those who might believe that they had purchased the right to legislate in their own interests regardless of the right of the public, but the price of the charter would eventually be the cost of society at large.

It is believed that the Senate, while convinced that the General Assembly can not delegate the powers of legislation to a corporation to be used for its own selfish purposes, will not leave a bill, which bears even the semblance of delegating such a power, to encumber the statute books of the Commonwealth.

Respectfully,

S. B. BUCKNER.

Said vetoed bill reads as follows, viz :

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, § 1. J. McDonald, J. T. O'Neal, Zack Phelps, John Buckley, Wm. L. Jackson, Jr., A. W. Keating, John McCann, D. L. May, George Bierod, and such others as may become their associates, successors and assigns, shall be, and they are hereby, ordained, constituted and declared to be a body-politic and corporate, by the name of "The Kenyon Trust and Guarantee Company, of Louisville, Kentucky," and it is hereby authorized to establish and maintain branches, branch offices and agencies at such places in or out of the United States, and for such periods as to the board of directors of said company may appear necessary or convenient; to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded in all courts of justice, and to have and to use a common seal, and the same to alter and change at pleasure; and they shall also be, and are hereby empowered, to purchase, hold, possess and enjoy to themselves and their successors any estate, real or personal, for the use of said corporation: Provided, That the lands, tenements and hereditaments which it shall be lawful for the said corporation to hold, be only such as shall be requisite for its purposes in the transaction of its business, or such as shall have been mortgaged, or conveyed to it in good faith by way of security for loans, or such as shall have been conveyed in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its business, or such as shall have been purchased at sales upon judgments or decrees obtained for such debts; and all such real estate as shall not be necessary for the purpose of said corporation in the transaction of its business, except lands mortgaged or conveyed as aforesaid, shall be sold and disposed of within five years after the said corporation shall have acquired title to the same.

§ 2. The objects and business of the said corporation shall be to assume and make guarantees of any description, including the principal or interest, or both, of the bonds of railroad or other corporate companies, and securities, obligations and contracts issued by any proper authority or person or corporation; to grant loans and make advances on dividend claims, and on any other securities or valuable property whatever; to undertake the care and custody and management of any kind of property, and accept and execute trusts of every description from any person, corporation or authority whatever, including money and property of every description, and to accept and receive deposits of the same; and any person, corporation and authority is hereby authorized to commit the same to said company, and the said company is hereby authorized and empowered to perform all the business and services of a trust company, and also to perform all the business of a safe deposit company, under such rules and regulations as may be requisite and not in contravention of the laws of the State of Kentucky or of the United States.

§ 3. The said corporation is hereby authorized to undertake and transact the objects and business above mentioned upon such terms and conditions as the board of directors may prescribe, or as may be agreed upon by the parties; and shall also have power to loan any money received on deposit or otherwise; to issue its obligations and certificates of deposits; to establish a bureau of financial adjustment of the affairs of corporations and co-partnerships, and issue such other securities as the board of directors may deem advisable; and the said corporation may charge, collect and receive such fees for their services as may be agreed upon.

§ 4. That the capital stock of said company shall be fifty thousand dollars in cash, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and into such classes as the directors may determine, which stock shall be deemed personal property, and transferable only on the books of the company in conformity with the by-laws; and when twenty thousand dollars shall have been actually subscribed and ten thousand dollars paid in cash, the said company shall be authorized to organize and adopt by-laws, elect officers and commence business; and said company shall have power to increase said capital from time to time, and to such an extent and to such an amount, as the board of directors may deem for the best interests of the company. Whenever, and as often as the capital stock may be, from time to time, increased, a certificate, under the corporate seal of the company, setting forth the amount to which said stock has been increased, shall be filed with the Secretary of State of the State of Kentucky, and such increase shall not go into effect until such certificate shall be filed. Zack Phelps, P. McDonald and John McCann are hereby appointed commissioners to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said company at such time and place as they, or a majority of them, shall deem proper, and for such amount as, in their judgment, the business of the company may require, but for no less amount than twenty thousand dollars, as hereinbefore provided; and the said commissioners shall call such meeting as may be necessary, and supervise the organization of the said company by the persons who shall make subscriptions to the capital stock according to the provisions of this act.

§ 5. That the property and concerns of said company and its corporate powers shall be vested in and managed by not less than six nor more than twenty-one directors, who shall be stockholders, and by such other officers as they may elect or appoint. The board of directors shall divide themselves by lot into three classes, as nearly equal as may be. The term of office of the first class shall expire at the end of two years; that of the second class at the end of four years, and that of the third class at the end of six years; and at the expiration of the second year, and biennially thereafter, there shall be chosen a number of directors in the class whose term will then expire, who shall hold their office for six years, or until their successors are elected; such election to be held at such time and place and in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws of said company, and in case it should happen that any election for directors should not be held at the day, when, in pursuance of this act, it ought to be held, the said corporation shall not be dissolved for that cause, but the acting directors shall hold office until their successors shall have been duly elected, and it shall be lawful to hold another election at such time and place as the directors, or a majority of them, may designate. Directors shall be re-eligible, and vacancies occurring in the intervals of elections may be filled by the board. In the biennial election of directors each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for every share of stock held by him, and such vote may be given in person or by proxy.

§ 6. That the directors, or a majority of them, for the time being, shall have power to make and prescribe such by-laws, rules and regulations as to them shall appear needful and proper for the management, custody and disposition of the assets of the company of whatever nature the same may be, and for the government of said corporation and the transaction of its business, and to fulfill the purposes of this act, and to amend, alter and revoke the same at pleasure, and to elect or appoint such officers, clerks and agents as they may deem necessary, with such compensation as may appear to them proper, and upon such tenure of office as said directors may determine; provided nevertheless, that such by-laws, rules and regulations shall not be repugnant to the Constitution of this State, or of the United States, and said board may hold their meetings at such place as they may designate.

§ 7. In addition to its ordinary shares of capital stock, the directors of the corporation hereby incorporated may issue, from time to time, to an extent not to exceed one-fifth of the number of ordinary shares, certificates to be known as "founders' shares," which shall have no designated value, and form no part of the capital stock of the company, and may be issued from time to time, for such purposes as the board of directors may deem proper, and under such regulations as the by-laws may prescribe; and which "founders' shares" shall be entitled to receive such a portion of the annual profits of the corporation as may be fixed by the by-laws, but shall not be entitled to receive any dividend or any part of the profits of the corporation hereby created until after the ordinary or capital stock of the company shall have earned, and there shall have been declared payable thereon, a dividend of at least six per cent. per annum.

§ 8. A message in writing was received from the Governor by Hon. Ed Porter Thompson, Private Secretary.

Said message was taken up and reads as follows, viz :

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
FRANKFORT, April -, 1890. }

Gentlemen of the Senate:

I respectfully return, without my approval, bills entitled respectively :

1. An act to amend the charter of the city of Newport, authorizing the reconstruction of its streets, and to pay for the same by an issual of bonds of the city ;" and

2. "An act to amend the charter of the city of Newport, exempting certain personal property from taxation."

These bills should be considered together, because one provides for an expensive system of street improvements, involving increased taxation on the people ; and the other provides simultaneously for extensive exemptions from municipal taxation with the necessary result of proportionally increasing the taxation on the remaining portion of the population.

The first-named of these bills authorizes, in the first section, paving of the most expensive character, at a cost to the lot-owners, as authorized by the fifteenth section, of not exceeding 50 per cent. of the value of the lot after the improvement is made. As a vote of two-thirds of the council can order the improvements without reference to the wishes of the lot-owners, the result might be a virtual confiscation of the interests of small proprietors.

The fifteenth section authorizes the council to exclude "certain classes of wheeled vehicles" from passing along and over any of the streets thus improved. This again might prove a great hardship to the laboring man whose home has been mortgaged to construct a street over which he is forbidden to drive the vehicles, the use of which, in his business, may be necessary to maintain his family.

The streets thus improved are to be paid for by the proceeds of two classes of 5 per cent. bonds, aggregating not more than $250,000. One-half of these bonds are to be accrued by liens upon the lots fronting on the improvements, the last payment to be made in ten years, the whole amount to be paid by the lot-owners. The other half are bonds of the city of Newport payable in thirty years by general taxation.

The improvements are to be paid for in cash, with the privilege of paying in bonds at par.

The eleventh section authorizes, but does not require, the council to direct the city treasurer to advertise for bidders for the purchase of bonds; while the ninth section authorizes the treasurer to sell them at his option, unless otherwise directed by the council. The fifth section requires that the first half of the bonds shall not be sold for less than par. It was doubtless designed to place a similar restriction on the sale of the other half, but the language of the ninth section does not necessarily do so. It authorizes him "to sell the said bonds at not less than par, or the most that can be realized therefor." If in his judgment he can not sell them at par, he may feel authorized to sell them for any amount less than par which he may think is "the most that can be realized therefor." This would be a dangerous discretion to be reposed in either an injudicious or an unfaithful official who might not be considerate of his trust. The ambiguity ought to be removed in the interests of the taxpayers who might be called on to pay largely for his bad judgment.

The second named bill provides in the first section: "That all moneys, notes, mortgages, bonds, building association shares, stocks and choses in action of every kind and character, all tools and machinery used in manufacturing establishments, and, also, raw material used in such establishments and manufactured stock thereof shall be exempt from all taxation or assessments of any kind or character for municipal purposes by the city of Newport."
